Impeachers Get Secret Jury Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House committee deciding whether there are grounds to impeach President Nixon took possession today of possibly vital evidence — the Watergate grand jury's secret report into Nixon's handling of the scandal.

Lawyers for the House Judiciary Committee got a two-page summary of the evidence and a bulging brown leather briefcase filled with material from the private office safe of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Sirica ruled last week—and the U.S. Court of Appeals upheld—that the committee must have the grand jury report.

The jury, which March 1 indicted seven of Nixon's closest aides and campaign officials for conspiracy in the Watergate cover-up, had asked Sirica to give the committee the fruit of its inquiry into the President's handling of the scandal.

John Doar, the committee chief counsel, was guarded by four large police officers as he left Sirica's office at noon carrying the briefcase. He did not talk with reporters.

Sirica called reporters into his office and told them the transfer process was complete. He read a letter from Judiciary chairman Peter J. Rodino, D-N.J., authorizing Doar "to receive on behalf of the Judiciary Committee" the grand jury report and accompanying materials.

"I deeply appreciate the cooperation of the District Court of the United States of America," Rodino wrote Sirica.

The judge then read a statement which said that he had turned the material over to Doar and minority counsel Albert Jenner, and "as far as the court is concerned, the transmittal is hereby completed."

Sirica said in comments to reporters that he and the House committee investigators met in the jury room, "not my office," and simply made an inventory of the material.

"We wanted to be sure that they got everything the grand jury wanted us to turn over," he said.

He refused to describe any of the material and would not say if there was indeed a tape of the March 21, 1973 conversation between Nixon and John W. Dean III, the former presidential counsel, in which "hush money" to Watergate burglars was discussed.

Sirica said his next move after turning over the report was to go on vacation.

It was Sirica who on March 18 ordered it forwarded to the committee. Attorneys for H.R. Haldeman and Gordon Strachan failed Thursday to win a stay of Sirica's order from the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The Appeals Court said it agreed with the government—it was "speculative" to worry that the material would be leaked to news media and destroy chances for a fair trial for the Watergate defendants." Besides, the Appeals Court said, any damage done by leaks could be repaired—the men could ask dismissals, petition for changes of venue, and seek other means to protect their rights.

But the grand jury material, it ruled, focused on Nixon's handling of Watergate and should go to the House Judiciary Committee. Nixon's Watergate attorney James D. St. Clair, the court noted, did not oppose the Judiciary committee's right to it.

Tribunal Invalidates State's Filing Fee

Court Also Rules On Other Election Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held today that states may not bar candidates from the ballot solely because they cannot afford a filing fee.

The decision, invalidating California's current filing fee requirement, was one of three issued today dealing with state election laws.

Writing for the majority in the California fee case, Chief Justice Warren E. Berger said California had chosen "to achieve the important and legitimate interest of maintaining the integrity of elections by means which operate to exclude some potentially serious candidates from the ballot without providing them with any alternative means of coming before the voters."

"Selection of candidates solely on the basis of ability to pay a fixed fee without providing any alternative means is not reasonably necessary to the accomplishment of the state's legitimate election interests," Burger said.

"Accordingly, we hold that in the absence of reasonable alternative means of ballot access, a state may not, consistent with constitutional standards, require from an indigent candidate filing fees he cannot pay."

State courts had upheld the system.

All the justices agreed in reversing the state decision although two justices, Harry A. Blackmun and William H. Rehnquist, did not go the full distance with the majority.

Blackmun and Rehnquist said they felt that a write-in provision enabling indigents to run for office would be sufficient to preserve the California system.

In a second case, decided on an 8-to-1 vote, the court left Texas laws on access to the ballot by minor parties largely intact, finding that they did not add up to an impermissible burden. Justice William O. Douglas disagreed.

The complex system of minority party qualification procedures had been attacked by the American Party of Texas and three smaller parties as an unconstitutional "labyrinth of details" that are biased in favor of Democrats and Republicans.

The third case dealt with qualifications for independent candidates, again in the setting of California law.

The court in a 6-to-3 vote, approved a California election law provision that forbids a place on the ballot to an independent candidate for elective office who has been a registered voter in a qualified political party within the year preceding the election.

But the court sent back for further fact-finding other questions relating to California requirements made of independent candidates.

The law requires that an independent have nominating papers signed by no less than 5 per cent nor more than 6 per cent of the number of persons who voted in the preceding general election. The signatures must be obtained in a 24-day period.

The justices sent these provisions back to a federal district court in California to determine whether they constitute an unconstitutional restriction on ballot access.

Decision Lets Grant On Ballot

The Supreme Court's decision opening state ballots to candidates who cannot pay filing fees assures a slot on the June 4 primary ballot for Leslie A. Grant of San Rafael, who is seeking the Democratic nomination in the Second Senatorial District.

Grant, a retired accountant, had filed an oath with his nomination papers declaring he could not pay the $211 filing fee. The county elections office accepted his papers under instructions from the secretary of state's office that such candidates would not appear on the June ballot unless the Supreme Court ruled on the issue by this coming Thursday.

The only other candidate for the Democratic nomination is Mendocino County Supervisor Ernest F. Banker. Candidates on the Republican ticket are incumbent Peter H. Behr of San Rafael and Sonoma County Supervisor Robert Theiller. Toni Novak Sutley is unopposed on the Peace and Freedom Party ticket.

Grant said the court decision was "an answer to a prayer. At least we have a fighting chance," he added. By "we," he said, he meant "me, myself and I — a one-man army."

Elizabeth Jacobsen of Novato, candidate for the special election in the Sixth Congressional District, said she will use the decision to avoid the $425 filing fee — which was far more than she could afford, she said.

Also benefitting from the decision will be Rev. Raymond Broshears of San Francisco, unopposed candidate for the Peace and Freedom Party nomination in the Fifth Congressional District.

The decision will open the ballot to 19 other candidates for statewide office who had filed oaths they could not pay the filing fees.

State election officials argued that opening the ballot to persons declaring they could not pay the filing fees would mean a glut of candidates on future ballots.

Power Of Courts Widely Expanded

By PAT ANGLE

SAN FRANCISCO — The State Supreme Court yesterday gave the courts farreaching powers to overrule the decisions of local governmental agencies.

By a 4-3 vote, the justices said that a California court may make its own investigation of the facts to determine whether a local agency's decision was the correct one.

In the past, the courts only had the power to determine whether a local council, board or commission had "substantial evidence" to back up its decision in a case. If the court found the agency had good cause for its action, it automatically would uphold it.

For example, a court hearing the appeal of a dismissed school teacher only would decide if the school district had good reasons for the firing. Even if the judge disagreed with the dismissal, he could not overrule it unless he found that the district had acted in an "arbitrary, capricious" fashion.

(For an example of a suit posing such a question of arbitrary abuse of power, see story on suit involving a dwelling at Stinson Beach, page 18.)

As a result of yesterday's ruling, a judge now can base his decision on the evidence in a case. If he believed that the teacher should not have been fired, he can overrule the district even if school authorities had presented substantial evidence to back up their action.

The supreme court ruling affects all local agencies, including city and county governing bodies, commissions, school boards, regional agencies and state agencies which have local jusisdiction.

Yesterday's ruling applies only to judicial rather than legislative decisions by local agencies and then only when the plaintiff can show that he has a "fundamental vested right" at stake.

(A judicial decision involves interpretation of existing laws. An agency makes a judicial decision when it decides between contending points of view or determines what the rights of an individual or group are

Ag Income In Sonoma Hits Record

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County's gross agricultural income reached a record level of $126.6 million during 1973, agricultural commissioner Harry F. McCracken told Sonoma supervisors yesterday.

He said the record income was due to higher prices and favorable growing conditions. "A lot of it," he said, is due to supply and demand, with income gain registered in some products despite a decline in production.

"Our apples, for example — there is very little carryover in storage because demand is so high. I've talked to processing plants and they say people call them now and don't even ask the price. They just ask if they can get so many cases — period."

McCracken said milk, Southern Sonoma's most important "crop," was the largest single item in the 1973 report, with income pegged at $34.8 million, compared to $30.8 million in 1972.

Although dairy income soared, McCracken said total milk production slipped slightly from the 5.2 million hundredweight figure of 1972 to just a little over 5 million last year.

The county's population of milk cows and heifers decreased in 1973 to 43,500 head, compared to 44,500 the year before.

Fruit and nut crops showed the largest gains during the year, McCracken told supervisors.

Total income from wine grapes during 1973 was $21.7 million, compared with $13 million in 1972. Grape tonnage over the same period increased from 28,590 tons to 42,700 tons.

McCracken said the average grape price per ton rose from $445 in 1972 to $508 last year.

Student Seeks Sixth District House Seat

A 27-year-old student at Indian Valley Colleges yesterday announced her candidacy in the June 4 special election in the Sixth Congressional District.

Elizabeth M. Jacobsen, a member of the Libertarian Party, is the first candidate to declare for the special election alone, and not also in the regular primary on the same date.

State law discriminating against minority parties, she said, accounted for the fact she is filing only for the special election. Anyone can file in the special election, and voters can ballot for anyone running. In the partisan primary, however, only parties qualifying under state law can appear on the ballot, and the Libertarian Party has too few members.

Miss Jacobsen thus can file only as an "independent," and will need 500 signatures on her petitions.

The special election will be in the old Sixth District to fill the seat of William S. Mailliard for the rest of the year. The regu-

Gnoss Field Plan Hits An Impact Report Snag

The proposed master plan for Gnoss Field became snagged yesterday as the Marin County Planning Commission rejected the plan's environmental impact report as inadequate.

The commission's rejection came on a deadlocked 3-to-3 vote over whether more information is needed on the economic impact an expanded airport would have on surrounding lands.

The move to require more information was spearheaded by commission Chairman William C. Long who said the commission should know generally the extent of restrictions on adjacent lands.

Members of the county aviation commission and planning department said that information will be available once the new Airport Land Use Commission develops a plan for properties around Gnoss Field.

Michael Sweeley, chairman of the land use commission and a member of the aviation commission, said the land use plan will be completed in about two years.

He said an adopted master plan for Gnoss Field would be helpful in developing the plan for surrounding properties. "It's unfair to the property owners for the county to vacillate back and forth" with use of their land held in limbo, he said.

(State law requires the county to have a land use plan, designating the kinds of development to be permitted around the air-

Brighter Gas Picture Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Automobile Association said today motorists will have less trouble buying gasoline next Sunday and fewer stations will run out of gas as monthly allotments dwindle in the last days of March.

The AAA said 23 per cent of the stations it contacted said they would be open Sunday, compared to 17 per cent a week ago.

It also said that only 3 per cent of the stations reported they were out of gas as the end of the month approached, the same percentage as last week.

Planners Cut Housing Density On 950 Ring Mountain Acres

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Rezoning of about 950 acres of Ring Mountain and the Tiburon Ridge to reduce the number of possible homesites was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission. (Another planning commission story, page 8.)

The commission's decision, which must be ratified by the county board of supervisors, reduces the number of future homesites from about 3,000 to 600.

According to county planning officials, the action is necessary to make the area conform to the county general plan, which lists it as greenbelt open space.

Yesterday's action was one in a series of 12 "open space" rezonings planned by the county. Similar actions have been taken in the Mount Burdell, North Ridge, and Sleepy Hollow areas.

Major areas still to be considered include Black Point, San Pedro Ridge and Wolfback Ridge.

Property owners yesterday said they consider the rezoning unfair and a confiscation of their property.

John Reed, whose family has owned 93 acres of the Tiburon Ridge near Keil Cove for 60 years, described the proceedings as a "shafting of the landowners."

Current zoning on his land would permit 372 homes though only 37 of the 93 acres are buildable, he said, adding it would be reasonable to build all the units on the 37 acres and dedicate the rest to open space.

Five commissioners disagreed, however, and cut his zoning to allow 18 units. The planning department had recommended nine units be permitted. Commissioner Marie J. Sessi dissented, saying more housing is needed, and Commissioner Gilbert Murphy was absent.

David Winslow, coowner of 23 acres on the ridge, said he and the other owners had been saving the property for years to provide homesites for their children and relatives.

Under current zoning, it could be subdivided into about 6 quarter-acre parcels —depending on slope policy requirements. The new zoning would

Zero To $9.48 In Bidding On Removal Of Drydocks

Marin County has received bids ranging from zero to $9.48 to remove the controversial dry docks in Richardson Bay.

The low bid, which offers to do the work for salvage rights, was submitted by Claus Wendel of Del Mar, but the public works department has recommended against it, claiming Wendel lacks the proper contractor's license.

Irving L. Schwartz, land development engineer, recommended in a letter to county supervisors that the second low bid of $2 be accpeted. It was submitted by the Howard H. Hanley Co. of Covina and was to be considered by supervisors this afternoon.

The Hanley bid listed $1 for removal of the dry dock walls and $1 for removal of the sunken hulls.

The third and highest bid of $9.48 was submitted by Gotelli Brothers of San Rafael.

Removal of the dry docks, considered an eyesore by many, has been sought for years by the county. In the past, however, cost estimates have ranged as high as $80,000.

Supervisor Michael Wornum last year attempted to have $50,000 budgeted for the project but the request was rejected by other supervisors.

Milkmen Used Demo Dummies As A Funnel For Nixon Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Several prominent Democrats were used by the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., the nation's largest dairy co-op, to cover up a $100,000 cash contribution to President Nixon, the Washington Post said in today's editions.

The Post said details of the plan for paying back the money are contained in a report commissioned by AMPI's board of directors and prepared by Arkansas lawyer Edward L. Wright, a former American Bar Association president.

The board action was a move to follow up reports of illicit campaign contributions by coop officials.

The Post said the report on AMPI's political dealings involved dummy payments to Democratic lawyers and public relations consultants who, in turn, gave the money back to the co-op, apparently with no questions asked.

The newspaper said the report showed the money was used to pay off various obligations, including the $100,000 bank loan AMPI officials obtained to pay for the secret contribution to President Nixon.

The scheme was devised after an official of AMPI's political arm, Trust for Agricultural and Political Education (TAPE) discovered there existed under federal law a $5,000 limit on individual contributions, the newspaper said the report showed.

Among the people involved in the plan, the newspaper said the report showed, were:

W. DeVier Pierson, former associate special counsel at the White House under President Johnson.

Ted Van Dyk and Kirby Jones, Washington public relations consultants, who later became associated with the Democratic presidential campaign of Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D.

Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., a former appointments secretary to President Johnson and later a Tulsa-based lawyer for AMPI.

Richard Maguire, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and subsequently a Washington lawyer for AMPI.

The late Clifton C. Carter, once executive director of the Democratic National Committee and another Washington lawyer for the co-op.

The Post quoted Van Dyk as saying, "I had no reason to think there was anything under the table about this at all. These people were essentially country people and they operated in an extremely erratic harum-scarum way. I had no reason to suspect anything untoward."

The newspaper quoted Rep. Jones as saying he made two contributions of $5,000 each but said Jones was emphatic that he was not reimbursed for them. It said Jones claimed the money was simply to help TAPE get off the ground.

"It was clearly my understanding that they were going to contribute to both poltical parties," the Post quoted Jones. "But it was also my understanding that my contribution would be used for Democrats. If they did (go for Mr. Nixon), I have no knowledge of it. And I'm damn mad if that's what they did with the money."

The Post also said Pierson declined to comment on the reported transactions involving him.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Pompidou Remains At Home

PARIS (UPI) — Ailing President Georges Pompidou, whose health has caused widespread press speculation that he will be forced to quit and call an early election, again postponed his return to work and remained at home today for the fifth straight day.

Pompidou

It was the second time the President has put off a scheduled ceremony to receive the credentials of East Germany's first ambassador to France, Ernst Scholz. Suffering what officials called a slight but painful disorder, Pompidou nevertheless kept in touch with affairs of state, officials said.

A spokesman at the Elysee Presidential palace said Pompidou now plans to return to his office tomorrow.

Call By Thieu

SAIGON (UPI) — President Ngyen Van Thieu said today only the blood and sweat of the South Vietnamese people could save the nation from Communist infiltration and attacks.

Speaking on the fourth anniversary of the government's land reform program, Thieu told a ceremony at Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, and a national radio audience, he had ordered a huge acceleration of the land reform.

English Bombings

LONDON (UPI) — Three bombs exploded at an army base in northern England today, slightly injuring a civilian woman employee on the base.

A fourth bomb was discovered by bomb experts on the base near Ripon in Yorkshire and destroyed in a controlled explosion, a police spokesman said.

The blasts were the first in England since Feb. 4. The Irish Republican Army (IRA) was blamed for a series of explosions that began late last year.

Auto Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — U.S. automakers are suffering another drop in new car sales, but said there also are signs a spring upturn might lift the energy crisis gloom from the industry.

Sales for the middle 10 days of March fell over all by 21.9 per cent from the figure for the same period last year, the auto companies reported Monday.

But sales for the first 20 days of March were up 25 per cent from the first 20 days of January and up 17 per cent from the first 20 days of February.

Terrorist Attacks

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Armed groups kidnaped one industrialist yesterday and killed a second before the eyes of his 13-year-old daughter when he attempted to resist. Two policemen also died in leftist guerrilla attacks on Sunday and yesterday.

The new violence came as Esso of Argentina still awaited the release of American oil executive Victor E. Samuelson for more than two weeks after the company paid a record $14.2 million for his release. He was kidnaped from a company plant near Buenos Aires Dec. 6.

New Ford Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — A majority of Americans polled believe by 52 to 22 per cent that Vice President Gerald Ford is qualified to assume the presidency if President Nixon is impeached, a Harris poll said today.

"In the three months since he has been vice president, Mr. Ford has pretty much measured up to the expectations of the public at the time he was named. Back in November, the vote was 50-19 for Mr. Ford as a qualified replacement for President Nixon," Harris said.

Intriguing Picture

PASADENA (UPI) — Scientists were "intrigued" today by a huge spot that glares from the face of Mercury so brightly it can be seen from more than two million miles out in space.

"It must be 200 or 300 miles across, at least," a spokesman for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said.

JPL scientists were monitoring television photos of Mercury, the little known body that is the closest planet to the sun, beamed back to earth by Mariner 10.

The spacecraft, ending a five month journey through space, was rushing toward Mercury at more than 25,000 miles an hour today, beginning to pick up speed under the pull of Mercurial gravity. It was to draw within 1.7 million miles of Mercury today.

Protest Visit

AJACCIO, Corsica (UPI) — A policeman lobbed a tear gas grenade toward French Prime Minister Pierre Messmer's car yesterday and a bomb went off in a town he had just visited on the first day of a visit to Corsica, where nationalists have been agitating for independence.

Messmer was scheduled to make a major speech today before winding up his 36-hour visit to the island and flying back to Paris.

Advance On Outpost

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Twin government columns backed by heavy air and artillery strikes continued to move from two directions today on the rebel-held former royal capital of Oudong, captured a week ago by insurgent troops, but there was no immediate report on their advance.

The Cambodian high command said intense fighting raged on the eastern flank of Oudong, 17 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, and in areas just north and east of the city where the two government columns were advancing.

Village Bombing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A car stuffed with explosives forced the temporary evacuation today of the 900 residents of a small county Londonderry village while army experts detonated the bomb.

The residents of Bellaghy were moved into nearby fields, an army spokesman said. The blast blew out some windows in the village.

Report On Nixon Homes Defended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the House committee that reported President Nixon spent $17 million to maintain his vacation homes says despite blistering White House criticism the report is "objective and straightforward."

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., said yesterday the report, the specifics of which are still supposed to be confidential, documents "how $17 million of taxpayers' money was spent that would not have been spent bat for the President's desire to maintain three private homes."

"If the President had not bought those houses after he was elected, the American taxpayers would not have been charged $17 million," declared the feisty, cigar-smoking Brooks. "It's that simple."

Brooks was reacting to sharp criticism from the White House that he was a partisan Democrat out to "get" the President and that the report was purposely biased.

"This report is an objective and straightforward analysis of all the data obtained by the subcommittee during an intensive investigation," he said.

Brooks also rejected the White House position that only $205,000 was spent to maintain the homes at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla., for the past five years.

"That figure is totally misleading in that it relates only to expenditures within the four walls of the home," he said.

"The fact is that $17 million has been spent. This figure covers all costs incurred in connection with these privately owed compounds including security, communications, office support, helipads, heating systems, landscaping, permanent guard details, and other such items."

Noting that the report of his Government Affairs subcommittee was the fifth upward revision of the spending figure, Brooks said "an even closer look" might find that the spending was actually higher.

The spending was "a misuse of taxpayers' funds," said Brooks. "I cannot believe the American people would approve the continuing expenditure of $1.6 million each year to maintain government employes at vacation complexes for the President."

THERE USED TO BE A FENCE THERE

William C. Cummings, 54, of Novato (center) inspects the damage his truck did when it swerved through a fence and flipped over yesterday on Highway 101 near San Rafael. The California Highway Patrol said Cummings was northbound on the highway about 12:20 p.m. when he braked because traffic ahead had slowed. The truck's wheels locked, causing it to swerve into the fence, officers said.

Year-Round School Plan Dropped

By REBECCA LARSEN

The Mill Valley School District board last night dropped the idea of converting one of its schools to a year-round calendar next fall, after it reviewed a survey showing that parents at only one school favor the program.

"I vote this way with reluctance because personally I wanted one of our schools to give this calendar a try," said trustee John G. Eliot Jr., "but it's obvious this idea is dead for next year."

The unanimous board decision climaxed a year of discussion by opponents and proponents in the district.

The new calendar the district would have used would have had four sessions of nine weeks of school, alternating with three three-week holidays and one seven-week summer vacation.

Previously, the board had said it would go ahead with the idea if one school had substantial majorities of parents and teachers who wanted it. Marin Terrace, the only school where most of the parents responding to a survey favored the calendar, had a slim majority with 65 parents, or 54 per cent, voting "yes" and dissenters numbering 55 or 46 per cent. Teachers at that school were 11 to 2 in favor of the idea.

Supt. Peter Palches agreed that the board should forget the new calendar for the other six district elementary schools but urged that Marin Terrace proponents get one more week to discuss it and perhaps come up with a new variation on the calendar. "There seems to be so much interest that I think we could come up with another proposal," he said.

One variation discussed was possibly pairing Marin Terrace with nearby Homestead School and having the year-round students go to one school and all the standard calendar children go to the other.

But one by one, board members agreed that although Marin Terrace parents could discuss the idea in the future, the calendar was dead for next fall.

"It would be a mistake to take the results at Marin Terrace, that don't even meet the lowest level of a substantial majority, and take a week to work on others to change their minds," said Trustee Thomas D. Spencer.

He pointed out that the school was split by controversy over its principal last year and said it doesn't need any more crises.

About 75 persons were in the audience to hear the board's decision. The parents who spoke were mainly opposed to trying year-around school.

After the vote, the board considered three proposals from Supt. Palches for the standard calendar to adopt for next year.

The superintendent proposed that the district consider adding one new week of midwinter holiday in February or adding another week to spring vacation. Both additions would be designed to meet the needs of families who take midyear trips.

Board members agreed to discuss the variations in future but said that Palches should consult with Tamalpais High School officials to work out a calendar similar to that followed by older students in the Mill Valley area.

Reformulation Of Korean Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said yesterday a proposal by North Korea the United States negotiate directly with Pyongyang to solve the Korean problems and end American military aid to the South appeared to be a reformulation of proposals made about a year ago.

A spokesman said the United States still felt the Korean problem could best be settled by the North and South themselves. He referred to the fact the U.N. General Assembly last fall in a "consensus resolution" urged both North and South Korea to continue their "dialogue."

"It should be clear by now that U.S. forces are in Korea to preserve peace and maintain stability on the Korean peninsula," Department spokesman John F. King said.

Board Can't Pay For Sewer Study

Directors of the Stinson Beach Water District say it can't pay a $272,000 bill from an engineering firm for design of a sewer collection system for Stinson Beach shot down by voters.

Because voters turned down a March 5 ballot measure that would have permitted the district to borrow funds to build the sewer system and pay for the engineering work, "there simply isn't enough money to pay the bill now," said board president Proctor Jones, explaining the directors' action, taken Saturday.

The fee, asked by Brown and Caldwell Engineers of San Francisco, includes $233,438 for engineering services and $38,746 in interest accrued since the previous district board signed a contract with the company in 1971.

A spokesman for the firm said "legal steps" would be taken against the district.

Jones said he and director John L. Jones will meet tomorrow with members of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District to discuss using the planned Bolinas sewage treatment plant for disposal of wastewater from septic tanks in Stinson Beach.

School Board Agrees To Discuss Ballfield

The Mill Valley School District will confer with the Tamalpais Community Services District about building a ballfield at Tamalpais Valley School, school district trustees agreed last night.

Community services district representatives told the board they want to build the field on school land, the school district to pay only for future watering of the field. The services district also wants the right to schedule activities on the field in after-school hours.

Trustee Joseph E. Bodovitz said he thought there might be a problem if the services district permitted the all-boy Little League to play on the field and suggested that the school district might have to insist that the field not be used by any groups with discriminating membership clauses. "This has been an issue in the City of Mill Valley, and I don't want it to come up here," said Bodovitz.

(A girl at Mill Valley Middle School last summer asked the City of Mill Valley either to force the local Little League to admit girls or prevent it playing in Mill Valley parks.)

Services district director Frank Purdy said he was not sure his board could agree to such a clause. "But those things can be worked out," he said. "Right now we just want a statement from your board that the idea is a plausible alternative."

Board members said they were interested, and chairman John H. Cutler said he will appoint two members to negotiate on the proposition.

Mill Valley School District Board also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Kathryn Steeves, teacher now on leave.

LEAVES —Discussed a new policy on leaves of absence and asked the superintendent to revise it to make it clear the board has final authority as to what justifies a teacher taking a leave.

RETIREMENT — Discussed a new policy designed to encourage early retirement among teachers at age 55.

MUSIC — Heard a report on the district music program.

MEETING — Set a meeting for next Monday at 8 p.m. at the Middle School.

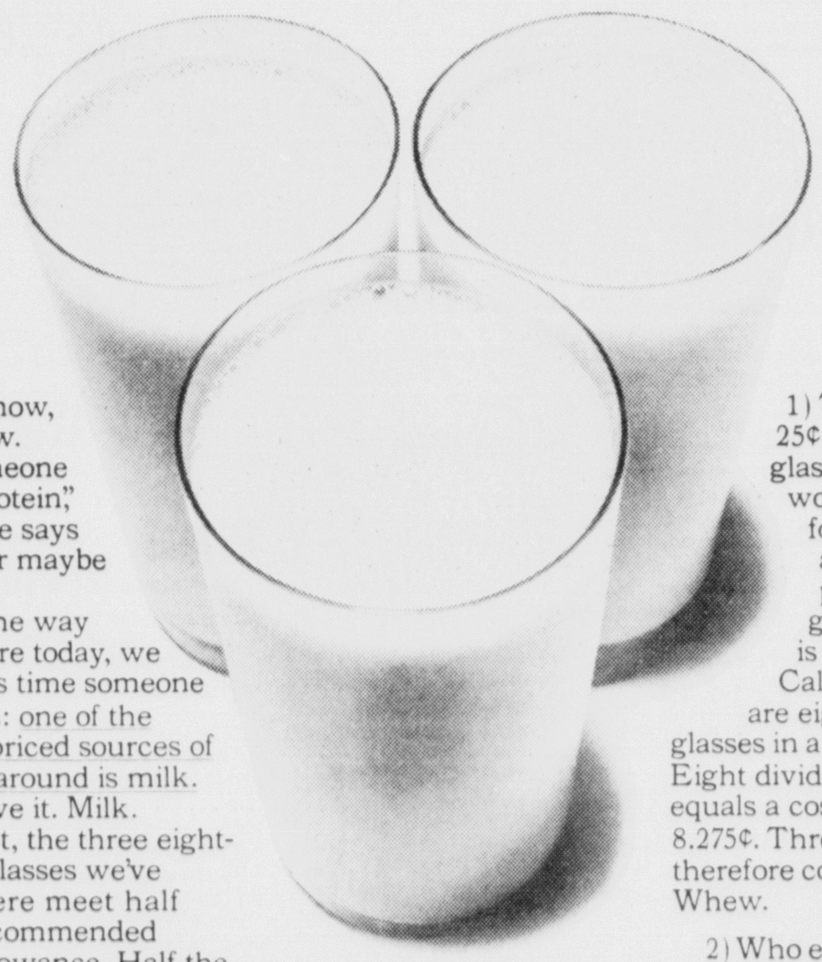
DELTA IS READY WHEN YOU ARE!®

Half the protein you need a day: 25¢.



We know, we know.

If someone says "protein," everyone says meat. Or maybe fish.

But the way things are today, we think it's time someone said this: one of the lowest-priced sources of protein around is milk.

Believe it. Milk.

In fact, the three eight-ounce glasses we've filled here meet half your recommended daily allowance. Half the protein you need for energy, for growth, for tissue repair.

And they cost less than 25¢.

Compare that to what you'd pay for the same amount of protein in other foods. Say a small sirloin. Or a lamb chop. Or even a lean quarter-pound of your old friend, hamburger.

Fact is, about the only lower-priced sources of protein these days are—brace yourself—soybeans, dried legumes and certain nuts.

And nutritionists please note: the protein in milk is happily high in quality. Higher even than it is in beef.

Or pork. Or lamb or fish.

So:

Are we saying you should swear off meat and fish, and switch to milk? Of course not: all three foods belong in balanced diets.

But what we are saying is this: if you're concerned about prices, and protein, and simply making ends meet, you still get your money's worth with milk.

And if you agree, we hope you'll drink to that.

California Milk Advisory Board

P.S. Just so you'll know where we've gotten all our facts and figures:

1) The price of 25¢ for three glasses was worked out as follows...the average retail price of a half-gallon of milk is 66.2¢ in California. There are eight 8-ounce glasses in a half-gallon. Eight divided into 66.2¢ equals a cost-per-glass of 8.275¢. Three glasses therefore cost 24.825¢. Whew.

2) Who endorses the "recommended daily allowance" of protein? The Food and Drug Administration, that's who. In fact, 45 grams is the amount specified in new Federal food label regulations. And three glasses of milk actually contain 25.5 grams of protein—more than half that amount. So enjoy, enjoy.

3) All protein measurements from "Nutrition and Physical Fitness," published by W. B. Saunders Co., ©1973.

Milk has something for every body.™

going to Judiciary reportedly included a tape or transcription of a March 21, 1973, conversation dealing with whether Nixon told Dean — as Dean has charged—that raising "hush money" for Watergate defendants was "no problem." Nixon has said he also told Dean "it would be wrong," but acknowledged the tape could be ambiguous depending on the bias of the listener.

John J. Wilson said in last week's appeals that perjury charges against Haldeman, his client, could stand or fall on that tape or transcript.

AIRPORT

port. Within certain noise contours, residential development is prohibited, for instance, to protect against future inverse condemnation suits.)

The airport master plan, which failed to draw support from the Novato City Council last week, calls for $7.4 million worth of improvements over the next 20 years. Those improvements include a second "crosswind" runway.

The commission's rejection of the plan's environmental report must be appealed to county supervisors if the master plan is to move ahead.

Frank Torr, manager of the airport, said no future improvements can be made without a master plan.

After the deadlock vote, commissioners spent a half-hour trying to work out a compromise but failed.

Joining Long in holding the added information necessary were commissioners Margaret B. Azevedo and Gloria Duncan. Commissioner Gilbert P. Murphy was absent.

Planning director Werner von Gundell said such an economic impact study could cost between $10,000 and $20,000 and take up to two months to prepare.

Commissioners Jerry Friedman and Rebecca Watkins argued such a study would be doing the land use commission's job and was not needed for a decision on the airport master plan.

Commissioner Marie J. Sessi also opposed the action, saying she was not certain an expanded airport would be of benefit to the average Marinite.

The request for additional study on surrounding lands was first made by Novato Attorney Robert D. Carrow, representing Peter Lind, who owns lands around Black John Slough south of the airport.

Others opposing the master plan were Richard Hill, a vice president at the University of San Francisco, which owns adjacent property, and Joseph Wright, a real estate agent, representing the Pinheiro property south of the field.

The Pinheiro land, commissioners agreed, should be the center of any economic impact study.

Mitchell's Attorney Bears Down On Dean

NEW YORK (UPI) — Defense counsel for former U.S. Attorney General John N. Mitchell whittled away today at the testimony of key government witness John W. Dean III, using a White House Watergate tape in an effort to undermine Dean's credibility.

It was the first use of a Watergate tape in a criminal proceeding.

Cross-examination of President Nixon's ousted counsel by defense attorney Peter Fleming took up Dean's second day on the witness stand at the federal court conspiracy trial of Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

Fleming climaxed his aggressive interrogation by getting Dean to admit that Mitchell never asked him to ask William Rasey, then chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, to "fix" the Robert L. Vesco case in 1972. The government had attempted to establish through its questioning of Dean that he acted as gobetween for Mitchell in dealing with Casey.

Mitchell and Stans are in their sixth week of trial on charges of conspiring to impede the SEC's investigation of Vesco, a New Jersey financial manipulator, in return for a $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Dean was named a coconspirator but was not indicted and is testifying under immunity from prosecution unless he perjures himself.

In direct examination the government prosecutor got Dean to admit that he was "Mitchell's man in the White House" and was asked by Mitchell to intercede in March, 1973, with then-Attorney General Richard Kleindienst about the "runaway" New York federal grand jury that had just questioned Mitchell about Vesco and which later indicted him.

Fleming asked Dean if he had told President Nixon about Mitchell's warning and his request that Dean telephone Kliendienst.

Dean replied that he had discussed the investigation with Nixon, but had not mentioned the Kleindienst aspect.

RULING

under a certain law. An agency makes a legislative decision when it enacts laws, or sets restrictions, limitations or regulations.)

The high court's ruling may have "a profound effect" on the decisions of local government agencies, according to San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi.

He explained that under the law, any application of a regulation, such as the county general plan or water moratorium, for example, may constitute a judicial decision and so be subject to review by the courts.

"This probably will make enough work for an additional 50 million lawyers," Bianchi quipped.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Rod Walston called the decision a blow to local governmental bodies, saying "it will enable more courts to upset more decisions . . . more easily."

Monday's ruling involved Mrs. Coreen Strumsky of San Diego whose husband died after heart surgery while employed by the San Diego Marshal's office.

Her claim for service-connected death benefits was rejected by the San Diego County Retirement Board.

Subsequently, a superior court judge ruled that he could not make an independent review of the evidence but said that if he could have, he would have ruled in her favor.

The Supreme Court concluded yesterday that the essential consideration was whether a fundamental right — economics in this case — was involved. If so, the court said, such a right is too important not to require independent Judicial review of the evidence.

The majority opinion was written by Justice Raymond L. Sullivan, with Justices Stanley Mosk, Matthew Tobriner and Chief Justice Donald Wright concurring. Dissenting justices were Lester W. Roth, Louis H. Burke and Marshall McComb.

Councilmen will also review the city's water consumption rate and elect a new mayor to succeed Geoffrey Dunham.

Writer's Family Receives Visas

Talks Dwell On Mideast Diplomacy

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Communist party general secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev today discussed the delicate question of the Middle East where Kissinger's personal diplomacy has annoyed the Soviets.

State Department spokesman George Vest said the two men discussed Middle East in a three and one half hour meeting at the Kremlin on the second day of Kissinger's visit here. They planned to resume talks at 5 p.m. (10 a.m. EDT). Vest said the two men got into the subject of Middle East peace negotiations after their earlier discussions on the stalled Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) in Geneva. But he gave no details.

The Soviets have been critical of Kissingers personal diplomacy in the Middle East, indicating they want the action shifted back to the Geneva peace conference where they felt they can have more of a say.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda, in a reference to Kissinger's Middle East diplomacy last week, said the American press had hailed it as a triumph but "it turns out that the mountain has given birth to a mouse."

Vest said Alfred L. Atherton Jr., assistant U.S. secretary for Near East and South Asian affairs, joinedthe talks today for the Middle East discussion.

He said Kissinger and Brezhnev devoted most of their meeting to this subject, and also touched briefly on the Soviet-promoted European security conference in Geneva.

After the morning meeting, Kissinger lunched privately with his senior aides at the Lenin Hills residence where he is staying, Vest said.

Vest said that Kissinger had originally planned to travel this afternoon with Brezhnev to Zavidovo, on the Volga River about 70 miles north of Moscow, for more talks at Brezhnev's dacha. But he said the trip was cancelled because of "bad weather." A light wet snow was falling in Moscow.

Kissinger opened his talks with Brezhnev yesterday and told Soviet officials during a luncheon toast: "Our greatest goal over the next three years is that we can make the relationship that has grown up between our two peoples and our leaders irreversible."

However, Vest denied a news agency report that Kissinger told the Soviets that Nixon has no intention of resigning before his term is up. "There's absolutely nothing to it at all," Vest said.

Tomorrow, Kissinger and Brezhnev are scheduled to complete their talks aimed at drawing up working documents for President Nixon's planned visit to the Soviet Union this summer.

Brezhnev told American newsmen before the talks began he was optimistic of reaching a new agreement with the United States this year in SALT talks at Geneva. They are now stalemated, but the U.S. negotiators have put new proposals on the table.

permit about three units.

He drew a round of applause from other property owners in condemning the rezoning as unfair.

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo later answered him by agreeing that "rezoning isn't fair . . . (but) the evolution of public policy doesn't consider fairness very often."

The rezonings, she continued, are part of that evolution in Marin which has seen the preservation of open space become a major county policy.

The major property owner in the area rezoned yesterday, Thomas Deffeback, also objected. He and other property owners were told the rezoning is a holding action which may be adjusted up or down when development plans are considered.

Only one area, Da Silva Island, escaped rezoning and will be considered at a later date along with other small parcels in Strawberry.

Superintendent's Contract Due Study

Supt. Bernard Barrish of the Bolinas-Stinson School District will present for district trustees his contract requests for the next school year at a special meeting at 5 p.m. today at Bolinas School.

lar partisan primary will be in the new Fifth District created by reapportionment. Both include all of Marin, but the new district adds rural Petaluma and shifts the district in San Francisco.

Miss Jacobsen said she is running to air her party's platform and as part of a court test of state election law that keeps the party off the ballot.

It would take petitions signed by 66,500 voters registered as Libertarians throughout the state to quality the party for the ballot, or 665,000 signatures of voters registered in any party to get the Libertarian Party on the ballot, she said.

She said the party was "for the individual being able to have as many areas of choice open to him as possible, in all areas, both in personal relations and in the economic world."

The party was formed in 1971 in Colorado, and Miss Jacobsen is one of its two representatives from six western states on the party's national executive committee. The party has 20 to 30 active members in Marin, she said.

A native of Corvallis, Ore., she was reared in the East and overseas. She worked as a secretary for most of the years between high school and entering college full time last summer. She has lived in Marin for six years and resides in Novato.

Miss Jacobsen, a sophomore, is studying journalism, and plans to get a bachelor's degree in it at San Jose State University. She also hopes to study economics at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Miss Jacobsen will speak at 9 p.m. tomorrow at the Noble Frankfurter, 529 Powell Street, San Francisco.

Filing for the special election runs from April 11 through the 19th.

tremendous gains in the commissioner's annual report — the value of the 107,400 tons produced last year was estimated at $11.3 million, compared with 114,500 tons in 1972 valued at $7.1 million. Price per ton soared from $62 to $96 during 1973.

McCracken said combined 1973 income from poultry and livestock was $26.9 million, close to double the $15.8 million recorded in 1972.

He attributed the increase to the fact that egg prices doubled during 1973 and beef prices increased by a third.

Because the price of wool skyrocketed from 40 cents to 88 cents a pound in 1973, McCracken said, gross income from wool shot up to $484,000 from the previous year's figure of $192,000. Total wool production in 1973 was estimated at 550,000 pounds, 70,000 more than the year before.

In general, McCracken said, Sonoma farmers grew more fruits and nuts.

While production of other crops was relatively stable, the Sonoma crop showing the largest decrease in production in 1973 was honey, with output slipping to 29,200 pounds from the 99,100 grown in 1972.

Income in 1973 from other crops includes: Bartlett pears, $840,500; walnuts, $212,000; nursery products, $3.04 million; field crops, $4.1 million; seed crops, $154,000, and vegetable crops, $160,000.

Chamber Eyes Charter Change

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Chamber of Commerce plans to sponsor a city charter amendment that would discourage city employees' strikes.

William E. Dauer, chamber vice president, said yesterday the amendment would limit the board of supervisors' power to set pay raises for most city workers. He said the move would "make strikes pointless by taking the political element out of pay setting."

The amendment would require supervisors to set pay within 3 per cent of "generally prevailing rates" found in annual surveys by the civil service commission. Voters could challenge any deviations from the new procedures through a referendum.

Sausalito City Hall's New Hours

New office hours for Sausalito City Hall will begin April 1, as will a new schedule for special council meetings, the city administration has announced.

Under a plan by Mayor Evert H. Heynneman for the convenience of residents who work during the day, city offices will be open until 8 p.m. Wednesdays and will close at 1:30 p.m. in the afternoon on Fridays.

Regular city council meetings will remain on the first and third Tuesdays of the month. On the second Tuesday, councilmen will be available for informal discussions with residents in a "citizens' forum."

The fourth Tuesday will be for councilmen to meet with staff department heads and representatives of city boards and commissions. The session is intended to improve coordination and communication between the various groups, according to the mayor.

All meetings are open and will be at 8 p.m. in council chambers.

Mexican Official Will Visit Cuba

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexican Foreign Secretary Emilio Rabasa will become the highest Mexican official ever to visit Communist Cuba when he arrives in Havana March 28 on orders from President Luis Echeverria.

Rabasa will travel to Cuba to attend the inauguration of a technical school named after former Mexican President Lazaro Cardenas.

Mexico has maintained uninterrupted diplomatic relations with Cuba since before the Castro takeover.

Cardenas, Mexican president from 1934 to 1940, was most famous for nationalizing foreign petroleum interests in Mexico.

Pair Selected For Vacancies On Tiburon Planning Commission

Two Tiburon planning commissioners were appointed, but little else was actually decided last night as the Tiburon City Council talked its way through more than five hours of agenda business.

It was the first meeting for three new councilmen elected last month, George L. Ellman, Donald S. Tayer and E. Bruce Ross.

Mayor Albert Aramburu promoted Harold Edelstein and William Lukens to the planning commission seats vacated when Ellman and Tayer won election to the council last month.

Edelstein was a city board of design review member, and Lukens was a member of the board of adjustments. Both will serve the remaining planning commission terms of Ellman and Tayer, until July 1, 1976.

The openings created by Edelstein's and Lukens's promotions will be filled later, Aramburu said. There also are two seats on the city parks and recreation commission to fill — Ellman's and that of Richard H. McConnell, who resigned.

Candidates for any of the seats should submit their names to City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert as soon as possible, Aramburu said.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

TRAFFIC — Continued to April 8, its hearing on the proposed circulation element of the Tiburon General Plan, after long discussion. Councilman Allan N. Littman criticized as "absurd" such statements as "recreational bicyclists have right-of-way over equestrians, racing and touring bicyclists and motor vehicles." He also warned that the plan to retain Tiburon Boulevard as a two-lane thoroughfare "will create the kind of bottleneck that's impossible." The circulation element, approved by the planning commission March 7, must be returned to it if the council changes the draft.

SCENIC HIGHWAY — Postponed action on the scenic highway segment of the general plan, for review by the council's public service committee.

SEPTIC TANKS — Voted 4-to-0 with Littman abstaining because of possible conflict of interest, to introduce septic tank regulations more stringent than the county's. Tiburon has about 40 septic tanks, mostly along Greenwood Beach Road.

NUISANCE — Ordered a letter to landlords of buildings at 23 and 25 Main Street, giving them two weeks to clean up litter, halt problems with dogs and bicycles, and solve other complaints about the area, which is the approach to the Angel Island ferry.

ZONING — Unanimously approved first readings of ordinances reviving the former RP planned residential district zoning, and rezoning Mount Tiburon subdivision Units 3 and 4 to RP from RPD-1, which would have required redundant master plans from the purchaser of each individual lot.

CITY HALL — Instructed staff to prepare estimates of the cost of building a city office building in the Sequoia Pacific area, in lieu of renting quarters. Kleinert reported Sierra Pacific Bank has offered a longterm lease on space at $30,000 a year.

INDIAN MIDDENS — After a debate that Mayor Aramburu called "a half-hour struggle that made us feel foolish" for lack of background information, postponed its first reading of a proposed ordinance to make it a misdemeanor knowingly to disturb archaeological remains by excavating inside city limits. Any project that could disturb a midden could be required to wait 60 days while archaeologists explore the sites.

POSTPONED — Also put off to the council's April 8 session, a staff report on current city projects for the benefit of the new councilmen, negotiations with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. over undergrounding utilities in the city's multipurpose path rights of way, and revised cost figures on the long delayed Paradise Drive sidewalk, budgeted since 1971 but never built.

TARA HILL — Ordered a call for bids on the joint drainage improvement project with private owners paying their share of the costs.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to discuss open space acquisition suits and other legal problems with the city's legal counsels.

ADJOURNED — To 7:30 p.m. April 8 in the city hall.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dr. Charles Z. Adams, a Sacramento surgeon, was reappointed to the State Athletic Commission yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

One Cancer Virus Link Is Predicted

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) — A leading cancer researcher predicts at least one form of human cancer will be traced to a virus this year but another scientist says such a conviction is unwarranted.

There has been increasing laboratory evidence during the past few years linking viruses to cancer, but confirmation of such a cause so far has eluded scientists. Proof would lead to an anticancer vaccine and mark a major step in the war against cancer.

The question of viruses and cancer was discussed in a series of reports released today at a science writers seminar sponsored by the American Cancer Society. Most researchers, including Dr. Albert A. Sabin of polio vaccine fame, were optimistic.

Dr. Sol Spiegelman, director of the Institute of Cancer Research at Columbia University, predicted one of two laboratories would isolate the first human cancer virus before the year ends.

"Thus far it really looks very good," he said. He would not say which laboratories were doing the work, but said he was familiar with their efforts.

Tiburon Will Lift Condominium Ban

After being accused by one citizen of "going in circles," Tiburon City councilmen agreed last night to end a moratorium and let apartment house owners resume converting their properties to condominiums, probably late in May.

The city put a four-month moratorium on the conversions last July. Councilmen said they feared that most of the apartments in the city were being converted into condominiums without adequate controls. The freeze later was extended through June 1974.

Mayor Albert Aramburu last night proposed that the city push ahead rapidly as possible with the final draft of zoning law amendments to watchdog both conversions and new condominiums. At the same time, he said, the planning commission will work on the housing element for the Tiburon General Plan. The condominium ordinance also will require an environmental impact report because it involves a change in the zoning laws, City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert pointed out.

Several tenants and apartment owners said they were anxious for the condominium freeze to end. One woman, Tracy Roberts, explained she sold her property in New York City and rented an apartment in the luxurious Oak Harbor Drive development on the understanding that she would be able to buy it. If the freeze doesn't end soon she'll have to pay capital gains tax on the sale of her New York holdings, she said.

"The council has been going in complete circles," repeatedly referring facets of the condominium problem back to committees or commissions, complained citizen William Cussen.

Councilmen Allan N. Littman and E. Bruce Ross warned that strict rules are needed to protect condominium buyers from finding themselves in units that are noisy, lack privacy, and are poorly insulated against cold or hot weather. Ross also asked revision of the zoning ordinance to shift condominium zoning from single-family to multiple residential.

Aramburu said that at the council's April 8 meeting, a committee consisting of Littman and Councilman and Donald Tayer will present revisions to the conversion rules recommended in February by the planning commission.

The planning commission is to receive the consultant's draft of the housing element tomorrow for study leading to public hearings before the commission April 24 and May 1. The housing element could be heard by the council as early as May 13, Kleinert reported.

"I'm suggesting a course of action that can meet the June 1 deadline" for ending the moratorium, Aramburu told the audience — even as the conversion rules listed for hearing last night were bounced back to committee for one more polishing before April 8.

ARTISTIC ACTION

For this child running at Ocean Beach in New London, Conn., it's just another form of exercise on a spring day. But the camera captured two kinds of action — the movement of the child and the lines in a board walk, presenting an interesting study in texture and pattern.

Status Of Crowe Still Undecided

The status of Fairfax Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe was left unresolved last night as the town council failed to reach a decision on the administrator's tenure after meeting for almost two hours behind closed doors.

The council set another closed session with Crowe for 6:30 p.m. next Monday in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council met privately for a half-hour, then called in Crowe and his counsel, San Rafael attorney Richard S. Timan, for talks that lasted 80 minutes.

"As for Bob (Crowe), there was no action taken . . . The matter is unresolved," reported Mayor Frank J. Egger.

Crowe and Timan were equally tight lipped about the session. "No reporting," Timan told onlookers as he and Crowe emerged from the council chambers. "I don't like publicity."

Crowe, suspended indefinitely by the council for his part in a post-election fracas three weeks ago, will face a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon in Marin Municipal Court on April 15. He has pleaded innocent to the charge.

Farewell Fete

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Chiang Kai-shek attended a farewell reception for departing U.S. ambassador Walter P. McConaughy. The reception yesterday was the 86-year-old leader's first public meeting with an American official since July 1972.

Tam High Budget Sessions Are Switched To Saturday

Deciding that clearer thinking may be more prevalent on Saturday mornings than on Monday nights, Tamalpais High School District trustees last night adopted a new schedule for studying cuts in programs and staff in the face of a projected $600,000 budget deficit.

Only last week trustees scheduled five Monday night meetings to study possible cuts in 16 programs which could eliminate up to 36 jobs.

But at the urging of Supt. Robert D. Torrey, trustees cut that schedule to three meetings, two of which will be on Saturday mornings. The board will meet April 6 and 20 at 9 a.m. and April 15 at 8 p.m., all in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Trustees emphasized that the special meetings would focus on budget cuts that would allow the district to retain some or all of the 36 teachers and administrators who face firing.

"I don't want to discuss the pros and cons of cutting out the continuation school if we don't have to get to that," said Jerrold M. Ladar, board president.

Toreey said that by the first special meeting his staff would prepare a "prioritized list" showing where budgets can be trimmed without firing personnel.

The superintendent said a significant increase in the deficit can be expected after salary negotiations are completed. He said an 8 per cent cost of living increase for all personnel would double the projected deficit.

But neither trustees nor an audience of about 50 persons seemed shocked by Torrey's statement. The Tamalpais District Teachers Association last week proposed salary increases of 22 per cent which would add about $1.6 million to the budget.

Trustees also discussed the possibility of easing their policy on personal leaves for teachers as a means of cutting the budget deficit. It would not be necessary to hire replacements for those on leave, Torrey said.

The superintendent said he would have a new leave policy drafted for trustees to consider when they meet again Monday at 8 p.m. in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

An Open Meeting Bill Is Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill requiring all congressional committee meetings be open to the public except those involving national security deliberations will be introduced by Rep. Bill Gunter, D-Fla..

Gunter said he will offer his proposals in an amendment when a House committee reorganization measure reaches the House floor in the near future.

Ski Lift Safety Fines Are Levied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Squaw Valley development company has been fined $17,895 for two recent violations of state ski lift safety regulations, it was revealed yesterday.

The State Division of Industrial Safety imposed the fines against Alexander Cushing's Squaw Valley Development Co., which operates virtually all ski lifts in the Squaw Valley area.

One violation involved an inoperative emergency brake on the Exhibition Chair Lift, which resulted in seven injuries March 8, the state said.

The other involved an improperly functioning backstop brake on the K-22 lift March 18.

Novato Plan Is Adopted By County

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday adopted the Novato General Plan which, like the county general plan, calls for holding the growth rate to 500 new units per year. (Other planning commission stories, page 1.)

County adoption of the city's plan amounts to a promise of cooperation but carries no legal status.

Commissioners, in voting to recommend adoption to county supervisors, said several areas in the plan need reconciliation with the county plan and that the county's housing element should provide the basis for low and moderate-income housing.

Commissioners complained that the Novato housing elment is too sketchy and general.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

MASTER PLAN — Approved a 12-unit condominium master plan and related rezoning for a 1.94-acre parcel on the north side of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between Oak and McAllister avenues in Kentfield.

SUBDIVISION — Approved a 15-lot subdivision of a 19-acre parcel at 1853 Indian Valley Road near Novato. The subdivision was requested by Harold A. Bloom who plans to seek the land in parcels of about one acre each.

REZONING — Approved a master plan and related rezoning for a planned commercial development on a half-acre site on the South side of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near McAllister Avenue in Kentfield. A new patio shop is planned for the site by John De Vries.

Butcher Leader Upheld In Firing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board yesterday upheld the right of a butcher's union official to fire an assistant because of a power-struggle conflict.

The board ruled that George Mesure, then secretary-treasuerer of Butchers Union Local 115 was justified in dismissing business agent Ernest Cerelli last year because Cerelli was going to run against him for leadership of the local.

The NLRB said labor laws protect a member's right to engage in union political activities but in this case an employer-employe relationship was involved.

Hub Disposal Firm Rates Ire Citizens

The San Anselmo Garbage Disposal Co. has been inundated with telephone calls by hundreds of residents protesting the firm's new garbage pickup rates, a company spokesman said yesterday.

At issue is a new "recycler rate" which offers customers willing to recycle a reduced service fee as an incentive to save the country's resources, according to Raymond Forrest, company consultant.

Forrest, noting that the firm was compelled by the city council to offer the recycling incentive rate, said about one-fourth of the company's 5,000 customers have expressed concern in recent weeks.

The city council at 8 p.m. today will consider adoption of the new fee schedule, including reduced rates of about a dollar per month for customers who recycle.

"It's been very hostile in many respects . . . People feel they're being forced to recycle," he said. "Main goal of the council, and we feel it is advisable, is to save our resources," he added.

Customers "just bitch . . . you know how the public is," he said. A minority of customers has expressed satisfaction with the new program, he added.

Complaints range from customers who claim they have no recyclables to customers who want to recycle but balk at sorting the aluminum, glass, tin and newsprint the firm will accept beginning April 1, according to the consultant.

Forrest said that newsprint will be collected on regular pickup days if it is bundled or bagged and placed on top of garbage cans. Aluminum, glass and tin will be picked up according to a schedule calling for one recyclable item to be left at curbside each week, he added.

Thus, aluminum will be picked up during the week of April 1; glass during the week of April 8, and tin during the week of April 15. The cycle repeats itself on April 22.

Under the new fee schedule, customers are charged according to whether they recycle or don't recycle, whether they live in a level or hilly neighborhood, and whether they want one-can, two-can, or economy weekly pickup service. Single-can weekly service in a level area for customers who choose to recycle is $2.30 monthly, while the charge is $3.05 monthly for nonrecyclers. The charge for all level area, one-can customers is now $2.50.

The difference in bills issued recycling and nonrecycling customers who live in level areas and are billed for two cans is $1.20 monthly.

Forrest said that customers billed at the lower recycling rate must continuously recycle throughout the year or lose the low rate. A recycling customer who throws recyclable materials into his regular garbage will be given one warning by garbagemen before being billed at the nonrecycling rate, he said.

City Atty. Hadden W. Roth said the new fee schedule is legal, and said he expects the council to adopt the proposal tonight.

Fountain Plan Will Be Placed On June Ballot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city board of supervisors yesterday approved placing on the June ballot a proposition calling for construction of a $1.15 million United Nations Plaza Fountain.

The voters will be asked, "Should a fountain, constructed of granite slabs and estimated by the Department of Public Works Bureau of Engineering to cost $1.15 million be built in United Nations Plaza on Market Street at the juncture of Leavenworth and Fulton streets?"

The June 4 vote would not be binding, according to City Atty. Thomas O'Conner, but the supervisors action requires that construction of the fountain be delayed until after the vote.

Two Appointed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dr. C. Robert Breckenridge of Lodi and Dr. Edward J. Becker of San Lorenzo have been appointed to the State Board of Dental Examiners.

KITING COLLEGIAN

Coaxing a kite into the air from the beach is more difficult than it looks, but it's just one of the activities pursued by American college students who invade Bermuda each year during annual college weeks (late March to April 20). The bikinied kite co-pilot shown yesterday on the beach at Hamilton, Bermuda, is Cheryl Burton of Little Silver, N.J., a student at Oldsfields College in Glencoe, Md.

Sierra Club Protesting Restaurant

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Bay Chapter of the Sierra Club has objected to the building of a restaurant partly overhanging a lagoon in Corte Madera, the Army Corps of Engineers reported today.

A corps spokesman said the Sierra Club called for public hearings before a permit for the restaurant and filling of its parking lot are granted.

The period for public objections expired yesterday and the only other public response was a favorable recommendation for the restaurant by the Marin Audubon Society, the spokesman said.

The Steak and Ale Restaurant of American firm of Dallas, Tex., has applied to build the restaurant with an exterior deck and part of the building overhanging "Lagoon A," alongside Corte Madera Creek. Fill and drainage work also is proposed at the site at the intersection of Lucky Drive and Nellen Avenue.

The corps, which has already determined that an environmental impact statement is not required for the project, will receive responses from other governmental agencies for the next two weeks and act on the permit.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Bills Would Boost Speed Limit To 65

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Separate bills to restore the state's maximum 65-mile-an-hour speed limit were offered yesterday in the House and Senate.

Both would repeal legislation setting the limit at 55 as a means to conserve energy.

Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, authored the senate version (SB1904).

The other measure (AB3494) was introduced by Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Los Angeles.

Both measures came on the heels of a call by California Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski to restore the 65 m.p.h. limit as soon as practical.

Both bills carried an "urgency" clause and would take effect upon signature of Gov. Ronald Reagan.

STATION HOURS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Oil companies would be prohibited from setting business hours for franchised service station dealers under a bill that cleared the Assembly yesterday.

The vote sending the measure (AB3107) to the senate was 44-12, three more than the minimum required.

Assemblyman Walter Ingalls, D-Riverside, sponsored the measure.

Although the oil companies would be prohibited from setting hours, a determination could be made by a proposed State Service Station Dealers Board or local governments "if there is a demonstrated need."

VOTE REGISTRARS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to provide voting registration for 18-year-olds on their high school campus was approved yesterday by the Senate.

Talk Announced On Panther Schools

Special schools run by the Black Panther Party will be the topic of a speech tomorrow at 1 p.m. by Elaine Brown, former candidate for Oakland City Council and party administrative assistant, in room 173 of Harlan Center at the College of Marin.

Her speech is sponsored by the college's speech class in contemporary dialogue.

The bill authored by Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach, would require registrars on the campus during the last two weeks of April and September.

Local school officials now make the decision on whether to allow registrars on campus and some of them have refused.

The bill was sent to the Assembly by a vote of 25-0.

Kennick said the bill was requested by the new High School Student Lobby.

TAX COMPACT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California will join the multistate Tax Commission as a regular member under a bill signed into law yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The governor said he realized the measure was controversial.

But he said it will allow the state "to maintain its position of leadership in formulating interstate taxation policy and will permit the state to continue to have the opportunity to protect its interests." When the bill moved through the legislature critics said the state would lose some of its independence in tax matters if it was approved.

Reagan said, however, it would prevent the federal government from pre-empting a vital policy-making area.

The measure was sponsored by Assemblyman Newton Russell, R-Tujunga.

Commuters Ask Rail Rehearing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Peninsula Commute and Transit Committee yesterday asked the State Public Utilities Commission for a rehearing on a railroad protest.

The commuter group is protesting the commission's decision last year to allow Southern Pacific Railroad to move its passenger station from Third and Townsend Streets to Fourth and Townsend.

The Commission March 14 rejected the organization's first appeal.

Man Stabbed At Underpass

A San Rafael man suffered a slight stab wound last night when robbed by a knife-carrying bandit at the Marin City underpass at Highway 101.

James Keating, age unknown, of 16 Latham Street, was cut on the arm at 11:25 p.m., Marin sheriff's deputies said. He was not hospitalized.

The holdup man took a suitcase Keating was carrying, according to officers. No other information was available today from the sheriff's department.

American's New $250 Look Ahead Plan:

Save $102 round trip to New York.

And have 90 days to pack.

While the cost of just about everything is going up, you'll be happy to know that the cost of flying to New York is going down. With American's Look Ahead Plan you could pay only $250 round-trip, if you make your reservation at least 90 days in advance. You'll save as much as $102 over regular round-trip coach fare. And if it doesn't take you 90 days to pack, you could use the rest of the time to spend all the money you've saved.

THE PITCH

SUMMER LOOK AHEAD PLAN
April 1 to September 30

DESTINATION	REGULAR COACH FARE	Monday thru Thursday		Friday thru Sunday
		SALE FARE	YOU SAVE	SALE FARE	YOU SAVE
NEW YORK	$352.	$250.	$102.	$280.	$72.

WINTER LOOK AHEAD PLAN
October 1 to March 31

DESTINATION	REGULAR COACH FARE	Monday thru Thursday		Friday thru Sunday
		SALE FARE	YOU SAVE	SALE FARE	YOU SAVE
NEW YORK	$352.	$230.	$122.	$260.	$92.

It's very simple:

You can leave any time starting July 8, 1974 until August, 1975.

You'll get a coach seat on regularly scheduled flights. (Flights may be nonstop, through or connecting.)

You'll get all the service you've come to expect from American.

And you can charge your flight on an American Airlines Vacation Card and take up to 24 months to pay.

All prices and savings quoted are based on fares in effect on March 22. Security charge not included.

So if you have friends or relatives in New York, this is the perfect way to pay them a visit. Without paying a lot of money to visit them.

THE CATCH

Who ever heard of a pitch that didn't have a catch? Here goes:

You have to make your reservations at least 90 days in advance and the number of seats is limited.

You must make a $20 non-refundable deposit, each way, within 15 days after your reservation.

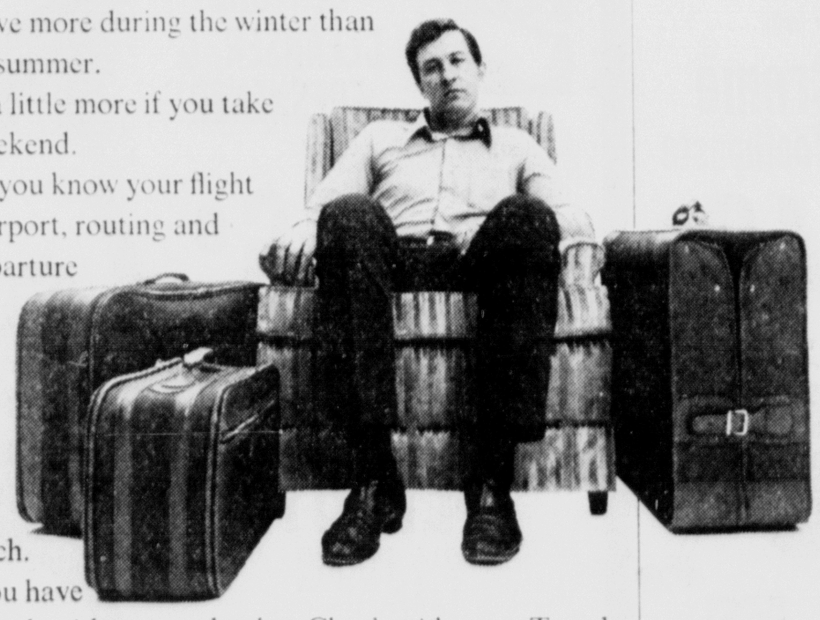
You have to make full payment 45 days prior to departure.

You'll save more during the winter than during the summer.

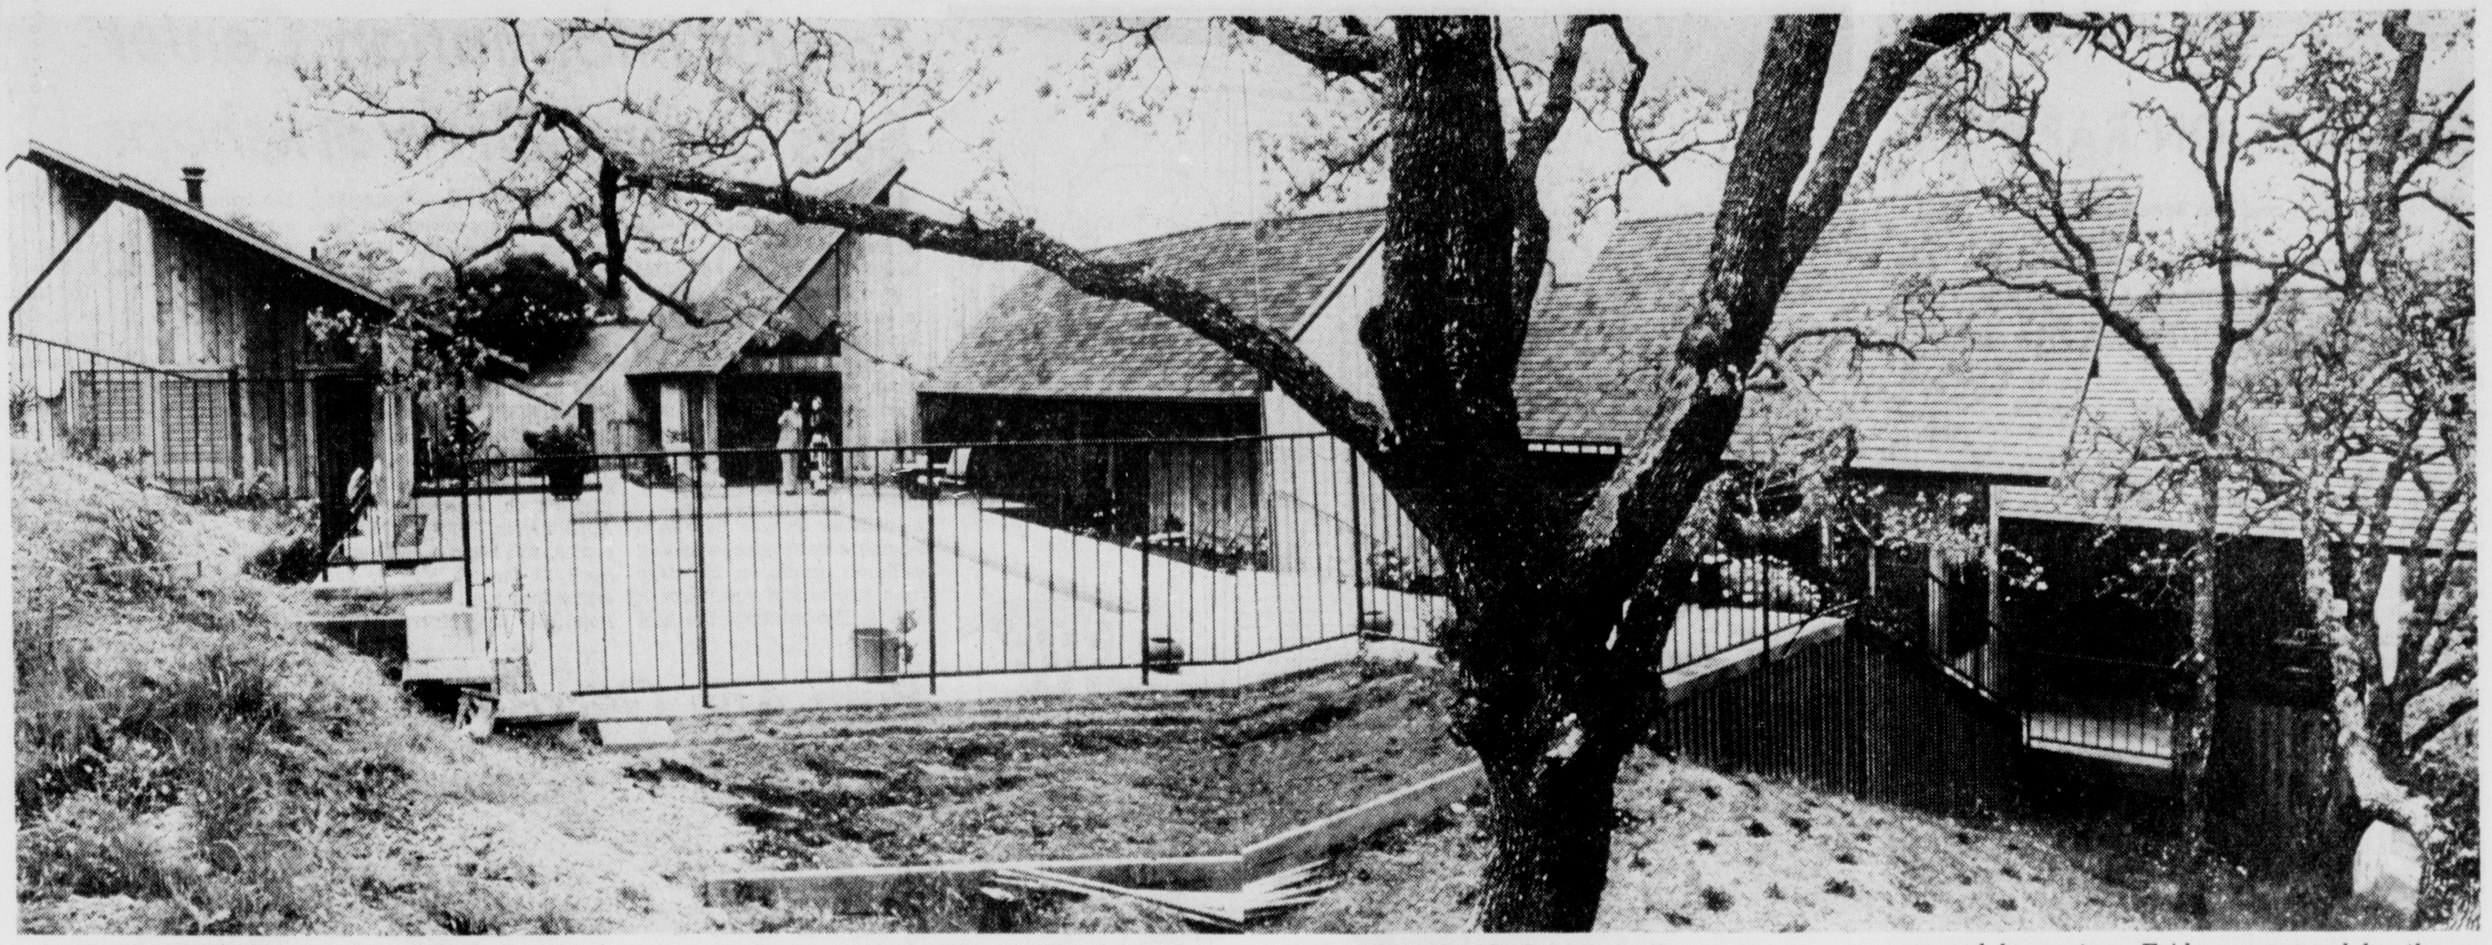
Add on a little more if you take off on a weekend.

We'll let you know your flight number, airport, routing and time of departure between 60 and 30 days prior to your departure.

That's it for the catch.



Now all you have to do is check with your calendar. Check with your Travel Agent or American Airlines. And go out and spend all the money you've saved.



EIGHT LEVELS making use of the contour hillside site above the Bahia and Petaluma River combine livability with nature in the Novato home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith at 2408 Laguna Vista. With exterior of rustic Port Orford cedar, every room looks out on acres of oak trees through undraped windows, giving a feeling of open space. Many of the rooms also look out on the pool area (center) which is flanked by oak trees. Mmes. Robert Rettig and Robert Warren will be hostesses at the Smith home for the annual house tour Friday sponsored by the Novato Branch, American Association of University Women.

ANNUAL EVENT IS FRIDAY

Unusual Homes On Tour List

Antiques, use of natural woods, handcrafted items and homes built on the hillsides to take advantage of the oak trees in the Novato area will be featured in the third annual Spring Flower House Tour on Friday. The tour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. is sponsored by the Novato Branch, American Association of University Women.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Almgren at 301 Wilson Avenue is located on four and one-half acres of green rolling land overlooking Indian Valley. Personal decorator touches of antiques and handmade furniture and a cedar interior and walls of windows are used throughout the house.

Beamed ceilings are featured in the living room and kitchen. The dining room has translucent skylight panels, one wall of windows and sliding glass doors leading to some of the 1,800 feet of decking in this 3,200 square foot, three-bedroom house.

Tour guests may also stroll through the grounds where there is a creek, a quiet pond and vintage wine cellar. A Portuguese family formerly raised grapes for wine on the acreage and some of the vineyard remains.

Because of the narrow, winding road to the Almgren home, tour goers will park their cars at the Sinaloa Junior High School tennis courts on Wilson Avenue where shuttle cars will be available.

HIGH ABOVE Bahia and the Petaluma river is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Smith at 2408 Laguna Vista. The eight-level home with exterior of rustic Port Orford cedar combines convenience and livability with nature. This 3,200 square foot, four-bedroom home for a family of five has a pool and deck which are near a small vegetable garden and other plants.

Every room has a long-range view of the countryside. The master bedroom wing features a wall of windows overlooking acres of oak trees of the surrounding green belt. None of the windows are draped so that there is a feeling of open space. The furniture throughout the house was built-in by the owner.

Several changes of level separate the dining area, living room and kitchen. The children's wing includes a music room, a family room and rooms for the three children at home — Laurie, 21, Maryanne, 16, and Matt, 13. Matt's room is the most unusual in this wing, as his bedroom has a loft above it where he has an electric train set up.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin H. Hille's home at 42 Eagle Drive, Marin Country Club Estates is a three-bedroom hillside house. The 3,100 square foot cantilevered home on four columns was designed by Hille, a Novato architect. Some of the furnishings and fixtures were also designed and made by Hille.

Raw beamed ceilings are used in the living room and from a glass wall the panoramic view of the East Bay and San Pablo Bay is visible. The mas-

WOMAN WHO KNOWS

Prisons Aren't Pleasant Places

By KAREN PETERSON

If there had been alternatives to treating juvenile offenders, one young woman believes she wouldn't have spent nine years in and out of juvenile halls, jails and finally federal prison.

By being labeled a juvenile delinquent at 13, this woman now in her mid-20's and introduced only as Pat, said last night she certainly "did live up to that situation." Most adult offenders, she added, started where she did, in juvenile hall, and this is an indictment against our country's system of criminal justice she told the Marin YWCA audience.

Prisons are "human warehouses" where the people are serving 'dead time," Pat told the audience at last night's first of the new Knowledge is Power programs at the Young Women's Christian Association, "Women and Treatment of Ex-Women-Cons."

People who are in jail are educationally and economically disadvantaged, began Pat, and the problem stems from their not having enough money to get out of jail in the first place. In many instances, she added, people are held from three to six months, and up to two years in larger urban areas, in cells of six until their case finally appears in court.

"Jails are a very bad place," she said, "There's nothing there for anyone."

As a woman, Pat said she was not the victim of antagonism but was treated like a child. The child role was perpetuated by the system, she said, and "we acted like children. The institution moulds these behavior patterns." Throughout her time in juvenile hall, Pat remembers a high degree of passivity among the offenders, very few of whom fought the situation. "I made life as simple for me as possible," she said. "A lot of people just gave in and cried. They didn't take steps for change."

Part of the passivity, she said, was due to the widespread use of tranquilizers meted out without prescriptions or psychiatric evaluations.

"It's an easy means of controlling people," she said. "It keeps the system running smoothly."

While the physical conditions for women in prison are far less severe than those for men, institutions such as the California Institution for Women on Terminal Island "slowly cut off your emotions and feelings."

"The monotony is what really got to you," said Pat of her unchanging routine at CWI. "Most people adjust," she said, "You live entirely within that fence. There is no other reality but that and it starts closing down sensations of touch and feeling. You deal with it, otherwise it would be very painful."

"I WAS scared to death to get out. I felt much safer inside the institution in many ways. It was where I chose to stay because of this," said Pat of her feelings after isolation from society.

The women who are incarcerated at the two women's institutions in California very often "shouldn't be there in the first place," said Pat because most women initially commit nonviolent, victimless crimes. Only after unsuccessful attempts at rehabilitation, from drug and alcohol addiction, do women commit more serious crimes, she said.

Vocational training is lacking in prison and rehabilitation at CWI when she was there meant work — clerical, laundry and sewing, all the things that kept the institution running.

"Salaries are low," she said, and "some aren't paid at all." For Pat, a 7-day-a-week, 8-hour-a-day job as a keypunch operator for Army, Navy, and Air Force surplus work gave her a paycheck of $60 a month to buy toothpaste, toiletries, sewing material and coffee from the prison commissary.

There are many emotional difficulties for women in prison, including the decisions that ultimately break up a family. "A lot of times a mother is faced with the choice of putting her child in a foster home or up for adoption," said Pat.

At CWI, women did have children in the prison hospital and by law, they were able to keep them in the prison for one year. But few did, she said, because it meant total isolation from the prison community. Prison officials, said Pat, felt the presence of a child would be "very bad for the rest of the population."

Pat, who is now working with a group supporting prison reform, does not see it coming from violence but from community pressure and education.

A Pregnant Matron Of Honor Causes Bride-To-Be To Worry

RAP:

My best girlfriend and I always planned to be in each other's weddings. Last fall I was her maid of honor.

My marriage date is September, and she is still happily expecting to be my matron of honor. The trouble is, her baby is due in early October!

Would it look right, having a very pregnant attendant? What if she was three weeks early and couldn't make the wedding? I hate to think people might be snickering and everything wouldn't be just perfect at the ceremony.

I can't change the date, so could you suggest something that wouldn't hurt my friend's feelings? — NANCY

NANCY:

I'd suggest you go ahead as planned, with your best friend as matron of honor. There's nothing improper about pregnancy but if you keep her out of the wedding party because there "might be snickering," isn't this a pretty improper friendship? — SUE

DEAR NANCY:

Who'd snicker? Maternity dresses are most flattering these days, and, besides you chose this girl for sentimental reasons, not her shape!

As for a first baby arriving three weeks ahead of schedule — it isn't likely. I'd rather take a chance than risk hurting a friend. — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

Here's more on "Say It with Stamps." The way you glue a stamp to an envelope says a lot. For instance:

Stamps on right upper corner, upright: no meaning — that's the way they're supposed to be.

Upside down: write no more.

Sideways: Go slow, for my heart is free.

Diagonally: Do you truly love me?

Upside down, left corner: I love you truly.

Sideways, ditto: Have you another lover?

Diagonally, ditto: My heart is another's.

I got these out of a book called, "Your Future, Your Fortune," by Robert W. Pelton. — POST OFFICE FREAK

RAP:

Maybe the placement of stamps on an envelope is something like the pinning of flowers: We used to say: Pin on corsage or boutonniere with blossoms up (as they grow) means "I love you." Put them on with blossoms down means, "indifference." — ALL IN FUN

AIF:

We never heard of that one either. The things you learn when you become advice columnists! — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

The young man who complained of his gas being siphoned needn't bother with a hard-to-find and nuisance-to-use lock cap. There is a device available which fits permanently into the neck of the gas tank. It allows for the input of gas but rejects a siphoning hose or any other foreign object with which to extract gas from the tank. It's installed in minutes with no special tools. — W.B.A.

DESIGN FOR PEOPLE

Convertible Furniture Answers Occasional Need For Extra Bed

By EMILY MALINO
Distributed by United Features Syndicate

I know a couple with many friends crashing over weekends. Since this family last moved, two new children have preempted their former guestroom, making overnight hospitality a bit difficult to offer with a real smile.

Most of us do have friends who need a pad to crash from time to time. It's nice to have a room to offer, but it's also wasteful to have a special guest room, used only for occasional overnight visitors.

The most sensible plan is to have a combination guest room. A pair of convertible beds in the library or den can be easily converted into cozy privacy. If there is no extra room, a child's room can often serve as an overnight pad, if you can move the little fellow in with his brother for the occasion, or if he is older and away at college.

But some folks are so short of space and convertible rooms that their living room or family room must become a guest room when the crash crunch comes.

For those of you in this large — and ever-growing crowd — don't panic. There are many pleasant and pretty ways to sleep in a living room without giving it the look of a boudoir.

In fact, with today's multipurpose furniture, we no longer assign a specific, fixed role for each piece of furniture. Today, we expect everything to serve more than one need and to be mobile, as well.

Take the home of the young couple who are now parents. Their living room was the usual L-shape we've all seen a hundred times, a dining section at the short end of the L.

The bonus here was that the long part of the L was well-removed from the entrance doors (which were adjacent to the shorter, dining area), making it possible to cluster the convertible sleeping furniture at one end in the conversation group that also made viable sleeping space.

I used two wicker sofa-beds that work as well for sitting or sleeping and yet manage to look sprightly and elegant. Each bed is on heavy duty casters that makes it possible to roll the beds closer or further apart.

The mattress and bolsters are covered in a sturdy white-textured cotton, that is contoured to fit the mattress; under it is the necessary bedding for instant overnighters — an electric blanket and sheets.

Bed pillows are zipped into matching white covers and topped with many occasional cushions for more comfortable sitting. Two lightweight Plexiglas occasional tables act as coffee-and bedside tables and two flexible gooseneck lamps work the same double shift.

A tile floor, tall shuttered windows and lots of growing plants combine with the wicker to give this room the airy, bright feeling of a garden room that works as well for a guest room as a parlor.

ter bedroom apartment is off the living room.

The lower living area features a large suite with separate entrance and private deck. Warm colors are used throughout the house.

THE JOHN Miklos home at 99 Carnoustie Drive, also in the Marin Country Club Estates, reflects the personality of the Miklos family. The home has sculptures, stitcheries, paintings and ceramics, the work of Mrs. Miklos. She has a kiln in the laundry room and spinning wheel in the family room.

The living room is filled with items of interst including a collection of apple dolls made by Mrs. Miklos and an authentic barber chair and barber pole.

The Miklooses have two daughters, Kris 15, and Kari, 10 years old. Kris's room is decorated to resemble a park, with a park bench and a living tree. "Keep Off the Grass" and "No Trespassing" pillows complete the effect.

The big yellow house of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hope at 5 June Lane is filled with furniture and mementos from the past, mostly turn of the century, including Tiffany lamps and stained glass.

The Hopes are avid antique collectors. Their kitchen furnishings include a 1910 Hoosier cabinet, an oak ice box converted into a liquor cabinet, a round oak pedestal table and an old oak chopping block.

The master bedroom features a late Victorian bed of walnut with a bedspread quilt made of grain sacks by Mrs. Hope's grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Hope not only share the avocation of collecting antiques but are competent in furniture restoration. Hope does the refinishing and Mrs. Hope the re-upholstering.

A SUMMER home and weekend retreat for the Donald Magnin family of San Francisco will be among the homes on the tour. A 1,700 square foot stacked house of weathered redwood shingles, it is located at Black Point.

The living room, dining room and kitchen are basically one large room. Floor to ceiling windows provide a view of the pool and garden and the oak trees beyond.

The house also includes four bedrooms and two baths. White is used for an airy effect throughout the home.

Ticket chairman for the tour is Mrs. Frank King, and tour tickets will be available at the tour houses.

The tour also includes lunch at Wild Horse Valley Clubhouse from noon to 2 p.m.

Six Experienced Clerk Candidates

George H. Gnoss's decision to retire at the end of this year has given Marin voters the unusual opportunity of choosing among six candidates for county clerk.

Not within memory has such a situation occurred before. During the long incumbencies of Gnoss and his predecessor, George C. Jones, opposition candidates for the clerk's position were few and far between.

EVEN MORE surprising, each of the six candidates brings some experience qualifications to his bid for the office.

Frank Bigley, town treasurer of Corte Madera, had first planned to oppose Stanley J. Fontez for treasurer-tax collector, but switched to the clerk's race. Bigley's present position and his previous service as chief of the management division in the Sixth Army comptroller's office appear to fit him better for the treasurer's job, but the management experience should be valuable in the clerk's office too.

Nadean E. Chapman has served eight years full-time and nine years previously part-time in the county clerk's office, during which she has acquired some experience in each of its assorted functions.

Howard Hanson is on a two-year assignment, under a federal grant, as administrator for the Marin County Superior Court. Previously he worked as an administrator in the Los Angeles city attorney and city administrator's offices.

Peter C. Meyer is the county elections officer, running a subdepartment of the clerk's office. Meyer has held that job since 1968. Under him, Marin elections, formerly noted for slow counts, foul-ups in voter notification, and even an accusation by the secretary of state of influencing an election result by misplacing a candidate's name, have become noted instead for smooth operation. Now Marin is one of the "quick count" counties, with a minimum of election troubles.

John F. Musser Jr. has the longest experience in the clerk's office. He has been there since 1958,and has been assistant clerk since 1968, before which he was head of the elections department.

Junetta B. Younglove is deputy jury commissioner and secretary for Marin County Superior Court, so she, like Hanson, has experience in court work which is an important part of the county clerk's duties.

IT'S A FIELD in which each candidate can point to experience in some part of the work which as county clerk he or she would have to supervise.

However, though all have experience, Meyer has something going for him that none of the others can match: As elections officer, he has in a highly visible position done a job that gained statewide attention — the more so because of Marin's previous unenviable reputation as a "slow count, fouled up" county.

Solar Energy In Gardens

We hear much about solar energy these days. It is the ultimate energy source which man must learn to harness, we are told. Yet, the gardeners and farmers of the world make use of the sun's energy every day. It is photosynthesis and warmth from the sun that activate plants to make starch and sugar, and ultimately proteins, oils, vegetables, fruits, flowers and firewood. Our growing things make use of solar energy every day of the year.

State Housing Subsidies Result In Pay Inequity

By EARL G. WATERS

What seems to be a glaring oversight in the management of state property has been accidentally brought to light by the State Board of Control.

It all started last summer when the board, sparked by disclosures that State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke is occupying a $350,000 Bel Air mansion for which he pays only $136 a month rent, ordered a complete review of the state's rental policies.

The board then learned that about 3,000 employes live in state-owned housing. The rent charged Dumke represents the maximum on a escending rental scale based upon the number of rooms and the age of the dwellings.

Queries as to why the state didn't follow the normal practice of basing rents upon the value of the property brought the answer that the values were not known. In other words, the state has failed to inventory its rental property. Neither has it kept cost accounting records.

THE BOARD DEEMED the present approach to rent schedules to be as archaic as the policies which led to furnishing of homes in the first place. That dates back to the days when there was a lack of housing within a reasonable distance of employment. Also there was thought to be a benefit to the state in having the employee live on the premises so as to be available in emergencies.

The policy has changed and most departments no longer desire to provide housing for employes. Still there remain many residences for which some use has seemed desirable until the buildings can be phased out in an economically feasible way.

The board concluded that unless the rentals charged have a realistic relationship to property values, the state is in the position of violating the equal pay for equal work concept of state employment. It therefore ordered a review and a new rent schedule.

THE REPORT WAS DUE last December. But time has dragged and still no report. It was the plea by the staff that the appraising of each dwelling would be a mammoth undertaking which brought to light the fact that the state has not properly inventoried its rental properties.

There was also some resistance expressed to the board's contention that rents should be based on the value of the residences. It was suggested that some employes could not afford to live in state-owned homes if they were required to pay rent in accordance with appraised values.

Board member Lew Clingan had a prompt answer for that: "Then let them move out and we will rent it to someone who can or convert the property to other use."

Clingan's remarks went to the heart of the problem: the inequity of furnishing homes to some employes but not to others doing the same work.

It is expected the board will adopt a new rent schedule along the lines proposed last September, but only as an interim step pending a full report reflecting appraised values of the properties.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Where MMWD Candidate Stands On Appeal

The water moratorium issue should not become a political football to be tossed to the candidate who wins the Division 5 seat for MMWD board, June 4.

While the question of whether to appeal the recent Marin County Superior Court ruling is technically premature until the intended decision becomes finalized, I wish to urge the present four directors of MMWD to make their own position clear as soon as possible. Should their legal counsel advise them to vote for appeal, I hope they do.

It is too serious a matter for delay. Indecision now can only harm us — the public . . .

Let me make my own position clear, since I am a candidate for director, Division 5. I would strongly supoort an appeal — in the event the court's final judgement reflects the same intended decision. I have read Judge McGuire's intended decision and have respect for him. However . . . because of the importance of our water moratorium to Marin and to the entire state of California, it seems judiciously sound to have a final ruling by the appellate court.

The basis of Judge McGuire's decision seems to be this: that a threatened water shortage is not enough to impose a moratorium on additional connections, but instead an actual emergency condition shortage must exist. Although I'm not a lawyer, I disagree with this as a matter of public policy. The district's primary concern should be to supply quality water at reasonable cost to its present users; at the same time it has to take imminent potential problems into account and plan prudently for the future.

Finally, let me emphasize that I do not look on the moratorium as a panacea or solution to the long-term problems of the district. MMWD has a continuing responsibility to augment its water supply, and to work in concert with Marin citizens to achieve the lower density, controlled growth limits of newly adopted community, city and county-wide plans.

Assure Justice For One By Abridging Another's

Your March 20 issue tells me in a front page story that the public defender can, under Penal Code section 1326, obtain a subpoena requiring that a citizen provide him with practically any information it may suit his fancy to demand. I assume that other state and county officials have similar authority. The story went on to say that the public defender assured his victims that their information would be kept confidential unless it suited his purpose to reveal it.

I am not on the grand jury panel and I have no idea how people get on it, but the suggestion that should someone put my name on the list he casually waives my right to privacy is flatly outrageous. Should this circumstance arise I will wind up in jail for contempt; I'll be damned if I'll tell anybody so much as the time of day under that kind of a court order.

Complaints here and elsewhere that grand juries are not sufficiently representative have enough content to merit investigation, but the suggestion that we ensure the ideas of justice for one group by abridging it for another is stupid.

Public Defender Devoted To Duty

Your editorial, March 20, on the "little known county public defender's office" was to an extent enlightening. All 19 members of this staff are extremely pleased to receive your acknowledgment of our doing "a good job."

Some of your readers may not know that our staff consists of myself, nine other attorneys, six secretaries and three investigators; that annually we handle approximately 4,000 cases. Each criminal case requires an initial financial interview to determine eligibility for our services. Once it is determined the person is eligible, it is our legal and moral duty to render representation in full compliance with the standards established for all lawyers by the federal and state constitutions and the state bar associaiton, as implemented by court decisions for the protection of the public.

Applying the usual eight-hour work day, it develops that on the average we are able to devote all of 4.5 hours to each case . . .

How is it possible for us to comply with the established legal standards, render adequate and competent legal representation and yet have only 4.5 hours to devote to each case? In truth, it is not possible . . .Yes, we have done "a good job," but at no small drain upon our spiritual and physical strength.

Concerning our "wander(ing) far afield" as to what is a legal defense, should I with my knowledge of journalism undertake your job, and you with your knowledge of law undertake my job, lassure you that both of us would be run out of town in 24 hours. Perhaps you overlooked the fact that any defense lawyer who willfully suppresses any legitimate and proper defense would be as guilty of obstructing justice as any of the confessed Watergate conspirators. Frankly, no one this office wishes to join that illustrious list of unethical lawyers.

Would Suppress News Of Student Walkout

I am an eighth grade student at Mill Valley Middle School. I think that it was wrong to give so much publicity to the students who participated in the Mill Valley Walkout. I believe that it makes matters worse and it is a problem that involves only the school itself. I think that if you were going to give the students who did walk out so much publicity, you should have given those who didn't the same opportunity to voice their opinion. I believe that the students who walked out could have much more easily worked out their problems by talking to the principal, he would have listened to their complaints and tried to help them. I think many students did not walk out for a cause, they just left to see what would happen. I don't believe the publicity has helped solve the problem any more than the walkout did.

'Wholesome, Sound, Impartial Publications'

Many thanks for your editorial "Kidnapers" in Monday's (March 18) I.J. The Christian Science Monitor should witness some of the sickening performances of most of San Francisco TV station commentators. They elevate all good murderers and kidnapers to a liberation army.

Your editorial is in keeping with a quotation in a lecture given in August, 1834, by Joseph Story (an associate justice U.S. Supreme Court and law professor at Harvard): "The whole community should be well informed upon its political as well as other interests, and it can be well informed only by having access to wholesame, sound and impartial publications". Not so the UPI item on Page 2 of Monday's I-J.: "Mills sees Nixon Out by November". To have read Representative Mills' original "private information" story and this UPI report without having witnessed Sunday's "Face the Nation" program in which Mills said his source was from the news media, would have been at least misleading information.

Nixon's Effort To Save Job Brings Abandonment Of Cause

WASHINGTON — How to win friends and influence people — the right people on the right side of the political ledger — is the Nixon goal. The motive is to hold the line against impeachment in Congress.

The president four years ago sent an environmental message to Congress — a first for any president — calling for a new national land-use policy. A year later the White House sent up a national land-use policy bill providing aid and encouragement to the states in regulating areas of critical environmental concer.

Applause came not only from conservationists but from the conference of state governors, the conference of mayors, the association of counties and the league of cities. Mild enough in itself, here was a measure that would give federal guidelines beyond the conflicting demands of local authorities and the self-interest groups out to carve up the land for a quick buck.

THEN THE IMPEACHMENT screws began to turn. The president, having marched boldly up the hill, marched right down again. The Senate under the leadership of Sen. Henry M. Jackson twice passed the land-use bill. The House interior committee approved it by a vote of two-to-one.

At this point the forces determined to prevent any interference with free-wheeling land developers stepped in. The powerhouse was the United States Chamber of Commerce. The instrument was Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona.

The Arizona identity is the key. Steiger is one of the conservative Republicans in the orbit of Sen. Barry Goldwater. The senator who has wavered back and forth over the president's plight in the Watergate briar patch is essential if the line is to be held against impeachment.

Into the breach rushed Rep. John J. Rhodes, another Arizonan. Rhodes replaced Gerald R. Ford as minority leader when Ford became vice president.

Going before the House Rules Committee, that champion blocking tackle of all time, Rhodes recommended that the land-use bill be shelved. He suggested instead a more-or-less meaningless measure originating with the Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by Steiger.

The committee conveniently folded. The matter was to be deferred indefinitely.

THIS CAUSED ACUTE anguish among those who had been nursing the bill along with the hope that it was finally to be passed. Foremost among them was Russell E. Train, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. Speaking the other day before a conservation conference in Chicago, Train said:

"There is in my judgment no more important legislation before the Congress than the land-use bill. Its importance does not life in the fact that it would have any immediate or earthshaking impact upon land-use patterns or practices in this country.

"The bill is a thoroughly modest measure whose importance lies in the fact that it would give new force to efforts already underway in a number of states and communities to give the citizens of this country a real say in determining the course and quality of our physical growth."

THE LAST-DITCH role is a familiar one for Train. Particularly since the onset of the energy crisis, he has been fighting on one fall-back position after another. Whether it is strip mining or coal substituted for oil in big city power plants, the crisis is being used to justify wiping out the gains made in the environmental field.

Train believes he can serve the cause of conservation and antipollution better by fighting from the inside. But those who admire his drive and ability as a public servant are beginning to wonder how many defeats he can take.

Two other victims of the Nixon switch are hoping that there will be a stay of execution and that the land-use bill can eventually reach the floor of the House.

One is Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, a Democrat and the sponsor of the measure, who was caught off guard by the action in the rules committee. The other is Sec. of Interior Rogers Morton, who had warmly endorsed what he thought was the administration's stand on land use only to have the rug pulled out from under him.

Morton learned the hard way about the hazards of working for the Nixon White House in the Watergate squeeze.

Lifting Oil Embargo Removes Strain From Atlantic Alliance

LONDON — The lifting of the Arab oil embargo on the United States clears the single biggest hurdle out of the way of urgent repair work on the NATO alliance.

So long as the Arabs were penalizing the Americans and rewarding most Europeans, it was difficult in the extreme for anything useful to be attempted. Indeed, it wasn't even being tried.

Now the picture can change. Washington is relieved of its concern that the Europeans, particularly the French, might get an unfair and uncooperative preferential position with the Arab oil producers. And the Europeans are no longer tempted by the possibility of getting an advantage.

With Arab oil flowing again to everyone except the Netherlands and Norway (and they seem to be getting all they need unofficially), the apple of discord in the trans-Atlantic community is gone.

LOOKING BACK on the story of the oil embargo, it can be seen that is was not the first time a heavy strain was put on the structure of the alliance, but it was probably the worst strain yet suffered with the possible exception of the Suez crisis in 1956. That also, involved oil.

Both Korean and Vietnam wars strained the alliance and narrowed the definition of its applicability. But the European allies made token contributions to the major American effort in the Korean war, and largely restrained from official disapproval over the Vietnam war.

Oil is another matter. Most people have forgotten what a dangerous chill was put on the relationship between Washington and London over the Suez crisis.

President Eisenhower and Sec. of State John Foster Dulles even considered putting the United States fleet between Suez and the British expedition heading there from Malta, and did apply an oil embargo on Britain which was lifted only after Prime Minister Anthony Eden resigned.

In the Suez affair the roles were reversed. British and French sided with Israel. The United States joined Moscow in trying to protect the Arabs. But oil was at the bottom of it all.

The damage to the alliance was severe. The special relationship between Washington and London never did recover fully. This had one unforeseen and unintended result. It helped clear the way for the British to join the Common Market.

THE LATEST OIL embargo also has put a severe strain on the alliance. The nature of trans-Atlantic relationships has been altered in ways and to degrees which cannot yet be measured but will emerge in future months, just as did Britain's changed relationship with the United States after Suez.

But the alliance has not been decisively broken yet, in spite of the strong words which have been hurtling back and forth over recent days across the Atlantic.

The most constructive single fact in the situation is that the oil embargo now is lifted and thus the oil issue has again been drained from inside the relationship. Sec. of State Henry Kissinger should be able to see his European colleagues as something other than persons trying to keep him from getting the oil he so badly wanted for Washington.

But who starts the new dialogue between Washington and the Europeans? British and Germans probably are in the best position to launch some doves into Atlantic skies.

They are not flying yet. But after a little time for everyone to calm down, and the turbulence to subside, the weather should be propitious.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

March 26, 1954

Problems of controlling development on San Rafael Canal were discussed at a meeting of city officials with representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers.

An Assembly committee killed a $65.5 million California "tax adjustment" program which included a 3-cents-per-pack tax on cigarettes.

20 YEARS AGO

March 26, 1964

Plans for developing Marin Municipal Water District lands into a state park were disclosed by James E. Warren, deputy chief of the California Division of Beaches and Parks.

A jury in Aylesbury, England, found nine men guilty in Britain's "Great Train Robbery" —the theft of $7,345,000 from the Glasgow-London mail train on Aug. 8, 1963.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"I see where they introduced a bill to raise senators' and congressmen's salaries. Most of the congressmen run away and won't vote on their salary raise. They run on a 'fearless ticket,' not afraid to come out into the open on anything, and then they run away from this. I'm going to hold a meeting and then vote myself a higher salary.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRANK FARRARA

How War Came To An End: They Put It Up To People

Peace came to the world in 2010 when the United Nations ruled it would take a two-thirds vote of the people to declare war.

For centuries, the power to declare war rested in the hands of kings, tyrants, parliaments, presidents, dictators and legislators.

With unchallenged authority, they sent millions of people into wars that resulted in millions of deaths and unmeasured devastation.

Gradually in the late 20th century, the movement to let the people vote on more and more issues grew, and finally in 1997 in a small European republic the people won the right to declare war.

THE FIRST TEST came when the president of the republic asked the people to declare war on a neighbor, who had valuable minerals his country needed.

The ballot was drawn up: "Shall the republic declare war on the freedom on or about July 23?" and public hearings were held throughout the land.

The residents asked, "How much will it cost?" and the president's staff estimated $320 billion.

"How much will that raise our taxes?"

"About $100 a year for the owner of an average hovel," a government official replied.

"How many years will it take to pay off the war debt?"

"About 220 years, if we get a favorable interest rate from the Bank of Europe," the president's financial adviser replied.

"HOW MANY PEOPLE will be killed?"

"If we use nuclear weapons and they retaliate, we figure we can save 17 per cent of the population; otherwise, with conventional weapons, we can save 37 per cent," the general replied.

"The question was how many will be killed," someone in the back row shouted.

"It's hard to say," the general replied. "But 10 to 15 million is a fair guess, give or take a few million."

"Why should I send my sons to war?" amother asked.

"It's better than having him hanging around the soccer field unemployed," the country's chief economist said. "Don't you realize we have an unemployment problem and the war will create jobs and payrolls?"

"WHAT WILL WE GET for our $320 billion and 10 to 15 million dead?"

"We will maintain the honor of our glorious republic, upholding the faith of our brave soldiers who have died in past wars; we will obtain the minerals necessary to our industry, and we will silence that brute of a warmonger who rules in fiefdom," the president said.

The campaign carried to the streets with the military carrying signs that read, "War With Honor," and pacifists with signs reading, "War Isn't Worth Two Cents."

When election day arrived, voters turned out in record number and defeated the war measure by a solid margin, with 75 per cent opposed.

MEANWHILE the rules of Fiefdom, worried about the possibility of war being declared by their neighbor, held a special war vote of their own.

The result in Fiefdom was even more decisive, with only 11 per cent voting for war.

In the next few years, residents of other countries demanded the war vote, and in every election in every country, war was defeated.

Finally belatedly acknowledging the trend, the United Nations in 2010 made the war vote universal.

Meade, With Eyepatch, Returns

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman Ken Meade, sporting a black eyepatch and sheepish grin, acknowledged yesterday that the legislator he scuffled with last week "made some damn good moves."

The Oakland Democrat, who was on the University of California's 1959 Rose Bowl team, said he needed to work a little on his own sparring techniques.

Meade, generally considered the loser in a bout last week with Assemblyman Louis Papan, an ex-FBI agent, called the scuffle "a very regrettable incident."

The patch gave Meade, 35, the jaunty look of a model in a magazine advertisement for whiskey or fine shirts. But his manner at an impromptu news conference was mainly serious.

"I share and accept part of the blame in the incident. But as Mark Twain once said, rumors of my demise have been exaggerated," he said.

The former quarterback, back in the legislature after a two-day stay in the hospital last week, said his injuries included a cut above his eye and a bruise on the left side of his head. Papan cleared the encounter physically unscathed.

Meade said he put the patch over his eye because it was discolored but said he felt fine and expected no permanent damage to the eye.

The scuffle followed a disagreement between the two over "the administration of the Assembly Transportation Committee" where Meade is the chairman and Papan is the vice chairman, Meade said.

Asked why the two had reported to a fight, Meade said, "This is a very tense business up here with a lot of things at stake." He mentioned the pending battle for the post of Assembly speaker as one factor contributing to the tension.

Meade is close to Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, the Van Nuys Democrat who is runing for governor. Moretti backs Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, as his heir.

Papan is a close friend of Assemblyman Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, Brown's main opponent in the speakership contest.

Emeritus College Sets Program

College of Marin's special educational program for retired persons, Emeritus College, will sponsor a day-long convocation to evaluate the new program Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the College Center on the Kentfield campus.

The day-long program will include registration at 9:30 a.m., a series of general sessions, a luncheon and workshop discussions.

Speakers and their topics at the general sessions are Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, "How Do We Achieve Our Goals;" Dr. Glen Burch, dean emeritus, University of California, Davis, "Better Education for the Older Adult"' Dr. Louis Kuplan, television producer-host, "Where Do We Go From Here;" and folk singer Malvina Reynolds who will sing several of her own works.

Workshop topics are "Why are We Here?" "What are the Needs of Emeritus College Members?" "How Can Emeritus College Meet these Needs?" "Why Does Each Generation Need Inter-age Involvement?" and "How can Emeritus College Further Inter-generation Activities?"

Information from the day-long program will then be used to plan courses, forums, concerts and tours for Emeritus College, according to Maurine Ver Mehr of the college's advisory council.

Registration is through the college boxoffice.

The Underwear Thefts Solved

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) — Park rangers are explaining to guests at the Ahwahnee Hotel these days that the articles, usually underwear, which vanish from their rooms are taken by "cat burglars"—ringtailed cat burglars.

The ringtails look something like a cross between a squirrel and a raccoon, and this, it seems, is the height of the ringtail mating season.

In the grip of romance the animals feel compelled to build nests. In their passion to complete the ringtail equivalent of a rose-covered cottage, they will filch anything that appears to be suitable nest lining.

Nixon Plaque Back In Place

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — The President's plaque is back.

Police, acting on a tip, said yesterday they went to an isolated area in the Jarupa Hills three miles west of the city, and found there the plaque that was stolen March 11 from a wall of the historic Mission Inn.

The plaque commemorates the marriage, in the inn's courtyard, on June 21, 1940, of a young lawyer, Richard Milhouse Nixon, to a school teacher, Thelma Catherine (Pat) Ryan.

ART BUCHWALD

Nixon's Right: He Must Make It Safe For Future Presidents

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's main defense against turning over documents and tapes to the House Judiciary Committee is that he is not trying to protect himself but the office of the presidency. He has said he has to think of future presidents when he makes these unpopular decisions to withhold evidence that under any other conditions he would be happy to turn over to Congress.

I think the president is right.

THE YEAR IS 2001, and President Harley Finckley, who was overwhelmingly elected by the Radical Energy Party (both the Republican and Democratic parties had gone bankrupt during the Great Depression of 1983), is sitting in the Oval Office at the White House.

His most trusted legal adviser, John Dean IV, the son of John Dean III, comes in. "Mr. President, I must report to you that there is a cancer in your administration. There are people in your own White House family who are trying to mortally wound you."

"I'm glad you told me about that, John. What exactly is going on around here?"

"Well, do you remember last June when seven men broke into the offices of the United Constitutional Party at the Vesco Trade Center?"

"I think I saw something about it on television."

"They're threatening to talk about their connection with the Radical Energy Re-Election Committee unless we pay them hush money."

"HOW MUCH WOULD it cost, John?"

"Three trillion dollars."

"We could raise that, John. But it would be wrong."

"Yessir, Mr. President. But if we don't hush them they may talk about the $10 trillion contribution the nuclear energy producers gave to you to raise the price of uranium in the United States."

"I forgot about that."

"There's also the $4 trillion contribution from ITT which was made the day before we agreed to let them buy General Motors, Chrysler and Ford."

"That's not my problem."

"BUT, SIR, WE HAVE the meeting on television tape of the chairman of ITT handing you the money."

"What's it doing on television tape?"

"Don't you recall, sir, you ordered all the meetings in the White House to be televised for historical reasons?"

"I forgot about that."

"But the real thing we have to worry about is the break-in of the Washington Redskins' psychiatrist's office. Remember, sir, you wanted to take a look at the psychiatric profiles of the team before you bet on them?"

"Yes, I do remember that, and our people botched it up completely. They stole the records of the Washington Senators, and we haven't had a baseball team here for 30 years."

"I ALSO HAVE to warn you that they're looking into how you got the money to buy the island of Hawaii."

"I borrowed it like everybody else."

"And then there are your taxes. A lot of people cannot understand how on an annual income of $20 trillion you paid only $2.50 in income taxes for 1999."

"I donated all my piano music books to the National Archives."

"Yessir, Mr. President. But what should we do about hush money for the break-in of the Vesco Trade Center?"

"Do anything you have to do to save me."

"But suppose someone finds out?"

"What's the difference? They can't touch me."

"They can't?"

"Nope. Thanks to the foresight of the greatest constitutional president in American history, Richard M. Nixon. God knows what would have happened to this office if he had taken the easy way out."

Innocent Plea To Tax Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Comedian Richard Pryor pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court yesterday to charges he failed to file tax returns for the years from 1967 to 1970 on an income of $250,000.

Pryor, 34, appeared in "Lady Sings the Blues," with Diana Ross. His trial was scheduled to begin April 23.

Tarantino Fails To Show In Court

By GEORGE NEVIN

Ludwig Tarantino, said by a psychiatrist to be "susceptible to further irrational acts" such as the Bolinas restaurant fire he is accused of starting, was being sought today by Marin lawmen.

Tarantino, 76, failed to keep a scheduled appearance yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman issued a bench warrant with bail set at $7,500 for the elderly man, who founded Tarantino's Seafood Grotto and operated it for 30 years.

Tarantino was arraigned Friday on a felony arson charge and Judge Smallman reduced bail from $10,000 to $2,500. Tarantino posted bail Saturday and was to have returned to court yesterday to enter a plea.

Tarantino is suspected of having started the fire by lighting cooking oil in the restaurant kitchen early Thursday. The blaze completely destroyed the turn-of-the-century building.

Today, sheriff's deputies reported uncovering a motive for arson.

Investigators said Tarantino told them he was "despondent over criminal elements in the community and he felt that his only alternative was to destroy his structure because it was being used by evil persons," the report said.

"He believed himself to be a member of a secret organization with the duty of defending American society against criminals and subversives," it continued. "Mr. Tarantino made frequent references to a secret society believed, in his mind, to be linked to the American Legion and to police authorities."

Tarantino was examined at the county jail Friday by psychiatrist Martin G. Blinder, mayor of San Anselmo.

According to the sheriff's department, Blinder reported Tarantino to be "grossly delusional, convinced he was acting as a super law enforcement officer directed by God. . ."

Blinder said he was "concerned that he remains susceptible to further irrational acts which may endanger his own health and safety or that of others."

The sheriff's department reported five tenants of apartments in the rear of the restaurant lost $11,500 worth of personal belongings in the blaze.

Bordon is Mayor Of Belvedere

David E. Bordon was elected mayor of Belvedere last night by a vote of 3-2 on a secret ballot of the city council.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said the selection was made in a short business meeting before a closed session to discuss candidates for city commissions.

Councilman Stuart C. Cullen nominated Bordon, according to Cavalli, and Councilman Charles E. Auerbach nominated Thomas S. Price, who had served a term as mayor previously.

Cavalli then suggested the secret ballot.

After Bordon won the vote for mayor, the council voted unanimously to name Price as vice mayor.

Bordon, 30, is an attorney practicing in San Francisco. In 1972 he was elected to the council after serving previously on the parks and recreation commission. He is a former chairman of the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee. He and his wife live at 19 Belvedere Avenue.

Following the election, the council discussed names of 100 persons who indicated in a recent mail survey that they are interested in serving on city commissions. The city now has two planning commission openings and one parks and recreation commission opening.

Cavalli said several names were picked as possibilities for the openings and that he and the mayor will discuss them further in future weeks.

MUSIC REVIEW

Marin Audience Wowed By Stanford Glee Club

By VERA M. OLMSTED

The 80-member Stanford Glee Club and Orchestra captured the imagination of a large and obviously partisan audience with their enthusiastic performance last night at Angelico Hall on the Dominican College campus.

This was the group's first apperance in Marin County in more than 10 years, and is part of a tour they are making throughout California and Oregon.

The glee club is a highly disciplined musical team, so experienced and secure that it sings without music. Most choral directors would give their proverbial eye teeth (tonsils ?) to command the kind of attention the singers gave their leader, Robert MacKinnon.

This group is able to sing anything from Latin motets to Bela Bartok, spirituals to show tunes. It's interesting to note that most of the "popular" music performed dated back to the 1920s through 1950s.

The singers looked fresh and collegiate, the women attired in long black sleeveless dresses, and the men wearing cardinal red blazers.

Throughout the evening the group maintained its high standards — crisp enunciation, clear attacks and releases — and was always responsive to MacKinnon's very precise and evocative directing.

The selections included some unaccompanied songs, others using the piano, and pieces scored for male or female voices alone.

The glee club orchestra joined the singers for the second half of the program, and the stage suddenly became packed with musicians. A swingy song from the 1920s, "Cheatin' on me" was sprightly and bright, and the orchestra sound was big and brassy.

Some of the other groups who performed were the Axidentals, an amusing barbershop act, and the Jazz Combo, which didn't project enough of a jazzy bounce, although individual players were capable.

It looked as if all of us loyal alums were going to be disappointed when none of the Stanford college songs were played, but spurred on by the thunderous ovation at the end the group obliged with a medley of old Stanford favorites, leaving many people humming happily when the lights went up.

PG&E Requests Geysers Permit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Permission to build a $17.5 million unit at the Geyser's power plant in Sonoma County was requested yesterday by Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Ten units are operating and one is under construction at Geyser's, the largest commercial geothermal power generating facility in the world. The application filed yesterday brings to four the number pending before the state Public Utilities Commission at the facility.

Plans call for 15 units to be in operation by 1977.

Woman Takes Home Battle Into Court

A Stinson Beach woman, twice turned down in her bid to rebuild a seaside home, filed suit yesterday against the North Central Coast Regional Commission.

Barbara E. Alban won an order from Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court forcing the agency to issue a permit or explain in court why it shouldn't.

The commission in December rejected Miss Alban's application to build a residence at 30 Calle Del Embarcadero on what her attorney called "the last remaining buildable beachfront lot in Stinson Beach."

Commissioners said they acted to preserve public access to the beach.

The rejection was appealed to the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission, which upheld the ruling. But it chastised the regional agency and ordered it to consider a smaller home on the lot.

Miss Alban made a new application, which was rejected once more by the regional commission Thursday.

In yesterday's suit, attorney Richard H. Breiner of San Rafael said both commissions acted "arbitrarily, capriciously and abused their power."

A new California Supreme Court ruling (see story, page 1) gives the courts broader power to rule on such a question of abuse of power.

The bodies used their power "as a subterfuge to declare a complete moratorium . . . upon her property for the purpose of taking the property for public use without paying . . ." said the suit.

A hearing on McGuire's order will be April 23. An earlier house on the lot burned down in 1960 and a storm later washed away all but the foundation.

PT&T Wins Temporary Office Spot

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. won approval last night from the Mill Valley Planning Commission for a portable office building on Lomita Avenue.

Robert J. Hanna, associate planner, said that the commission agreed to the use of the temporary building for six to eight months on condition that the firm put up a bond to guarantee its removal after one year and screen the building with temporary landscaping.

The firm already has city council approval for a sewage holding tank on the property. The 3,000-gallon tank which will serve the portable will have to be pumped out weekly by disposal trucks.

The temporary sewage facilities and building for 25 employees will be used until the firm can get a sewer permit to allow construction of permanent offices. That will probably happen in June when the Regional Water Quality Control Board is expected to lift its ban on new sewer connections in Mill Valley.

Also last night, the commission continued a request from Mape Industries that it be allowed to convert to condominiums 104 apartment units, approved by the city but not yet built at the Shelter Ridge site overlooking Highway 101.

Land Gift Supported

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended that the city accept 36 acres, west of Garner Drive from Crown Development Co.

The company has offered to dedicate the hilly land between Ranch Village II subdivision and the Indian Valley Colleges campus.

Commissioners suggested the property be used for "low intensity recreation" for cyclists and equestrians.

Because of the topography, development at the site probably would be limited to about seven units if the offer isn't accepted, the planning staff reported.

The commission also set April 15 and 29 at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House for public hearings on proposed amendments to the Novato General Plan.

A Literary Magazine In Petaluma

A new quarterly literary magazine, envisioned as a starting place for promising but unknown young writers, has begun publication in Petaluma.

The Sonoma Review is the brainchild of 30-year-old Joseph Jeremy of 1153 Skillman Lane, who believes established publishers won't give new writers a break because they haven't made names for themselves.

The first edition is dedicated to Ezra Pound because of his "ability to help what he thought was important in the works of young unknown artists," Jeremy said in an editorial.

The 32 pages are mostly poetry, the majority written by Jeremy and members of his 16-person staff, as well as a short story and an excerpt from a novel.

The Sonoma Review will eventually publish art work and plays as well, Jeremy said.

The magazine will be sold mainly through subscriptions, he said, although copies will also be available at some Marin and Sonoma bookstores.

Nicasio Board Studies Budget

Nicasio School District trustees last night discussed a proposed $56,000 budget for 1974-75, a spending program which would be cut $6,000 from this year's budget because of declining enrollment.

Beverly Alberigi, district secretary, said the one-school district now has 48 pupils but fewer are expected next year.

It may be necessary to drop one of the school's three full-time teachers, she said, but the board has made no decision yet.

'Hansel And Gretel' Auditions Set

Sunshine Theater will hold auditions for a nonmusical version of "Hansel and Gretel" in Crish the Victor Lutheran Church, Fairfax, on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

"Hansel and Gretel" will be the sixth production of the Sunshine Theater and will be staged in May at the San Rafael Improvement Club. There are openings in the cast for five women and two men.

Reinecke Heads Youth Advisers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke was named coordinator for a State Advisory Commission on Youth formed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Established by executive order, the commission will be made up of 15 persons 25 years old or younger.

Members will be selected from a list of nominees from the League of California Cities.

Wayne's Advice

TOKYO (AP) — John Wayne says he has "too many callouses" to even consider appearing nude in films. But the 67-year-old star of numerous Westerns, here on business, had some advice for nude streakers: "It's better to be fast."

Vacant Seat On Library Board Filled

Elizabeth H. Grasham, wife of Marin Community College District Supt. John A. Grasham, was appointed to the San Rafael Library Board last night by the city council.

Mrs. Grasham, 51, is a member of the city's citizen advisory committee on the general plan, and the San Rafael Library Association. She lives at 192 Esmeyer Drive.

Mrs. Grasham, who has said the city needs a "new library now," was chosen from a field of three applicants to fill a seat vacated by the resignation of Bryce W. Anderson.

(Meanwhile, the San Rafael City-County Library Committee yesterday decided to study possible joint funding of a library in downtown San Rafael, or the Terra Linda area, or both. The panel of city and county officials set April 22 in the Civic Center for further discussions of the financial participation of both sides in such a venture.

(The city, which originally planned to go it alone in financing a new library, has put plans in limbo pending outcome of discussions with the county over a joint venture.)

In other business, the city council learned last night that the city is in excellent financial shape, as city finance director John B. Averett presented a glowing midyear financial report.

"Our financial shape is essentially what we forecast in the budget," according to Averett. "There will be a surplus in all accounts at the end of this fiscal year."

Averett said the city forecast about $8 million in revenues for this year, and as of February had collected about $4.5 million. The remainder of city revenues will be collected in April and May, when property taxes and in-lieu taxes are due, he said.

The city council next meets at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

Wornum Proposes Revenue Bond For Low-Cost Homes

A state revenue bond issue to finance low-interest loans to build housing for "low and moderate economic levels" was advocated yesterday by Michael Wornum of Mill Valley, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District.

Allocation of the funds would take into consideration the varying costs of land and construction throughout the state, the county supervisor said.

Without such a program, Wornum said, "local communities are virtually helpless in implementing housing goals for those of limited economic levels." Low-income persons should not have to live in substandard housing or pay a disproportionately high part of their income for rent, he said.

He noted similar legislation was vetoed last year by the governor, who objected revenue bonds cost more in interest than general obligation bonds, and that revenue bonds avoid the voter approval required for general obligation bonds.

ROTH — William Matson Roth of Ross, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, today agreed to debate Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., frontrunner for the nomination, on a Los Angeles television station April 9. Brown offered last week to debate rival candidates, and Roth said he has reserved a half-hour for a "Kennedy-Nixon" debate. Roth said he would finance the debate himself, if necessary.

FILANTE — Dr. William J. Filante of Kentfield, candidate in Marin Municipal Water District's Division 3, will open his campaign Sunday with a wine reception and evening at the theater. The reception will be from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Ross home of Barbara Goldenberg, 150 Lagunitas Road, and guests will attend the 8 p.m. performance of The Boyfriend at the College of Marin's Fine Arts Theater.

ALIOTO — The Second (Congressional) District Committee on Political Education, AFL-CIO, made up of representatives of the Marin, Sonoma-Mendocino, Napa-Solano and Humboldt-Del Norte central labor councils, has recommended the state COPE endorse San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto for the Democratic nomination for governor. The state COPE meets April 9-11 in San Francisco. Charles Smith, president of the Marin council and chairman of the district committee, will head the northern counties delegates to the state meeting.

IMPEACH? — The Marin County chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union is polling all candidates in the Fifth Congressional District and for state Assembly and Senate on their stands toward impeachment of President Nixon, an action favored by the national ACLU. The candidates' answers will be announced by the chapter by mid-April.

HOLLIS — Virgil S. Hollis, seeking reelection as Marin County superintendent of schools, has called for expansion of vocational training. Three of every 10 children in elementary grades will not graduate from high school, according to national statistics, he said.

Coffees for Hollis will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Sausalito home of Fred Rudow, 33 Marin Avenue, and from 4 to 6 p.m. Sunday at the Novato home of William M. Cooper, 141 Kaden Way.

MORETTI — Marilyn Moretti, wife of Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, will be the guest of honor at a reception Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Kentfield home of Sharon Ludlam and Robert L. Lieff, 14 Madrone Way. Reservations are being handled by Moretti's campaign headquarters in San Francisco.

FONG — A cocktail party and dinner for Assemblyman March K. Fong, D-Oakland, candidate for her party's nomination for secretary of state, will be held in San Rafael Friday by the National Women's Political Caucus of Marin. The party will be from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the home of Dora M. Knell, 11 Peacock Lane, and the dinner from 8:30 to 10 p.m. at Peacock Gap Country Club.

Boy Taken Off Critical List

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Ten-year-old Bernard O'Donnell of 16 Post Street, Petaluma, was taken off the critical list at Memorial Hospital here yesterday.

Although his condition is now listed as poor, officials at the hospital said the youth has begun recovering from the severe skull fracture he received Thursday when his bicycle collided with a truck at Bodega and Park avenues in Petaluma.

Sewer Connect Fees Studied

The Homestead Valley Sanitary District last night discussed a proposal to double its sewer connection fees, according to secretary to board secretary Gustaf F. Wolf.

In the case of a single-family home, the fee would go up from $240 to $550 for a house with one bathroom and from $325 to $650 for a house with two bathrooms.

Wolf said the fees will be discussed at several more meetings before final adoption.

ARGENTINE BUSINESSMAN

Big Cars Boggle Visitor's Mind

By FRANK FARRARA

Paul Mathiasen, a 36-year-old plastic plant supervisor in Mendoza, Argentina, doesn't understand why so many drivers in the United States have big cars.

"You have speed limits. You can't use all that power," Mathiasen said the other day while stopping at the home of John L. Novak, 50 Rica Vista, Novato.

Mathiasen is one of five young Argentine business and professional men touring Northern California under a Rotary Club exchange program.

They arrived in Menlo Park March 2, visited from last Wednesday through today and will visit other Northern California counties before they leave for home April 20.

"Why do all the cars have automatic shifts?" Mathiasen asked. "It uses more gasoline. I like to have my gears and do it myself."

Argentine drivers "use many small cars," he said. The country doesn't have any gasoline problem, but does have a parking problem," he said. "We produce 85 per cent of the gasoline we use."

One hitch is that the price of gasoline is about the same as in the United States but the salaries are lower, he said.

Mathiasen and Alberto Labay, 29-year-old general manager of a viticulture company, were relaxing at the Novak home after a day that included a visit to the Marin Civic Center, Novato Rotary Club, a feed mill in Novato and a ranch in Petaluma.

Mathiasen, who learned English from his wife, was spokesman for the pair. The purpose of the trip is to learn something that will be useful in Argentina. . . "to learn American methods."

At the same time, he said they are "ambassadors of goodwill," advised to avoid political comment about either President Juan Peron or President Richard M. Nixon.

Mathiasen said "our manufacturing needs a lot of the kind of communication you have between people, like with radio. In Argentina one has to go from one place to another to find one person," he said.

He also said he was impressed by the punctuality of people in the United States "who seem to have clocks in their heads."

In the United States when people say they will meet you at a certain hour, they are there at that hour, but in Argentina, they might show up several hours earlier or later, he said.

One of his aims is to learn how to get more work done, he said. "We have siesta time, with workers working 8 to 12 and then from 3 or 4 to 7 or 8."

Mathiasen said he can't understand the young people with long hair in the United States "who don't work" with the opportunities available here.

If they would live in Argentina for a few years, they would know how fortunate they are "that they live here," he said. It is difficult for young people in Argentina "to have a good home and to have a good car."

He also thought it "fantastic" that hitchhikers in the United States carry signs showing where they are going. Otherwise he said, a motorist might stop and then learn the hitchhiker isn't going his way.

Area Six of District 513, including San Rafael, Terra Linda and Novato Rotary Clubs, is the host for the five young businessmen, all nonRotarians accompanied by a Rotary representative from Argentina.

Next year five young men from District 513, also nonRotarians, will visit Mendoza, under the Rotary Foundation program, which has involved 2,735 young men from more than 50 countries.

Prison Reformers Claim Plan To Close San Quentin A 'Hoax'

A spokesman for a Marin-based prison reform group yesterday called the state Department of Corrections' proposal to shut down San Quentin and build two new prisons elsewhere in the state a "hoax" and a "carrot being held out to the Legislature."

The department last week announced plans to ask the Legislature to fund new prisons, each estimated to cost $70 million, at Vacaville and in San Diego County, and to close San Quentin by 1978.

Ron Silliman, director of research and education for the Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice, said at a press conference in San Rafael that there is "no real need for two new prisons."

Silliman readily agreed with prison officials that San Quentin is antiquated and in need of repair and called it "obscene." He also said that overcrowding in California prisons is leading to violence.

The problem, though, he said is that many more persons are being held in prisons today than "need to be for the safety of the general public."

Silliman said the overcrowding is the result of "an administrative decision," rather than an increase in crime or in violence.

The current Adult Authority, he said, is making it much tougher for convicts to gain parole than was the practice in past years.

"When John Clutchette (one of the Soledad Brothers) got a parole, that was the straw that broke the camel's back for the governor," Silliman charged. He said it is through Gov. Ronald Reagan's insistence that the California Adult Authority has tightened up on paroles.

Of the many candidates running for governor, Silliman said, "only one, Reinecke (Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke), would be likely to keep the same policy."

Silliman said that with a change in parole policy, San Quentin could be closed down and no more prisons would be needed.

Silliman later said that even if there is not a change next year in the administration policy, he thinks San Quentin should not be remodeled, "but left as it is at present, in order to point out the situation."

Silliman said he doesn't think the Department of Corrections really intends to close down San Quentin — "the people (officials) at San Quentin don't act as if they expect to be phased out."

Instead, Silliman accused the Department of Corrections of empire building and wanting to construct the "most expensive two prisons" in the world and then filling them with people who, in his view, should not be in prison.

The reformer said that only between 10 and 20 per cent of those in prison now are "so violent" they could not be kept in their local communities on some sort of probation.

Silliman also noted that a bill introduced by State Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, which would end state subsidies to counties for criminals kept on probation, would increase further the state prison population.

"In Marin, it would probably be the people now in the county jail" who would be sent to prison, he said.

ROBERT FROST
Honored today

Farm Scene Of Frost Observance

DERRY, N.H. (AP) — The farm that inspired Robert Frost's poems of rugged New England life and Yankee individualism has become the center for observing the late poet's 100th birthday.

"He was heartbroken when he visited this place and found that it had become an automobile graveyard," said Lesley Frost Ballantine, the poet's daughter who grew up here from 1900 to 1910.

Frost was born in San Francisco, March 26, 1874.

Since the state bought the property after Frost's death a decade ago, the rusting hulks of hundreds of wrecked cars have been removed from what had been his apple orchard.

"Of all the places we lived, this is the one he would have wanted to restore," said Mrs. Ballantine, who insisted that Derry be chosen for the issuance of a commemorative United States postage stamp today on the 100th anniversary of Frost's birth.

Frost, who moved here in 1900 after he dropped out of Harvard, said the 10 years he lived in Derry were the basis of most of his poetry.

Although the orchard became a junkyard, the house "is fundamentally the same as it was when I lived in it," Mrs. Ballantine said. "It hasn't been treated badly."

The white clapboard farmhouse and attached barn standing alone on a hill amid a few old maple trees have been freshly painted, but peeling wallpaper and ceiling paint reveal the need for work inside.

Some of the original plank flooring has been covered with linoleum, the wood-burning stove has been removed from the kitchen, and the two-seat privy in the barn has been boarded over. The bathroom installed in the house will have to be removed for the sake of authenticity, Mrs. Ballantine said.

Outside, time has wrought greater changes. The village about two miles away has expanded with new residents moving north of Boston and the nearby Massachusetts border. A trailer park is on the edge of the 70 acres acquired by the state.

"People don't even talk with the same New Hampshire accent," said Ed Barna, a 26-year-old poet who with his wife, Amy, has lived in the house as a caretaker for the last three years.

Woods near the house have grown up around the New England stone wall, west-running brook and pasture spring that were the subjects of some of Frost's best-loved poems.

Folk Guitarist Plans Concerts

Sweetwater Movement, a five-guitar group which performs contemporary folk balads, and folk guitarist Ed Rowan have scheduled concerts April 19 and 26 to benefit the Linda Vista Hospital in San Rafael.

Both concerts will be from 9 to 11 p.m. in the United Methodist Church, Novato. Tickets will be available at the door.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, March 26, the 85th day of 1974 with 280 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

American poet Robert Frost was born March 26, 1875.

On this day in history:

In 1892, American poet Walt Whitman died in Camden, N.J., at the age of 73.

In 1952, Dr. Jonas Salk announced a new vaccine for immunization against polio.

In 1965, President Lyndon Johnson ordered investigation of the Ku Klux Klan after four men were arrested in the fatal shooting of a white civil rights worker in Alabama.

In 1973, Sir Noel Coward, playwright, actor and songwriter, died at his home in Jamaica at the age of 73.

A thought for the day: American poet Robert Frost said, "A child misses the unsaid goodnight, and falls asleep with heartache."

South's Major Goof Came On Second Trick By Using An Ace

Some years ago, a friend of mine painted himself into a corner of a room and had to wait there several hours while the floor dried. This gave the rest of us plenty of time to compliment him on his foresight and general intelligence. When we make the same sort of mistake at the bridge table, fortunately, the punishment doesn't last as long.

Opening lead — ♡ Q

SOUTH TAKES

West opened the queen of hearts, and South won with the ace. Declarer cashed the ace of trumps and then led a small trump toward dummy.

West discarded a heart, and East captured dummy's jack with the queen. East took the king of hearts and then shifted to the eight of diamonds.

Declarer won in dummy with the queen of diamonds and led the nine of spades through East. When East properly played low, dummy remained in the lead. In effect, declarer had painted himself into the dummy.

TRIES CLUBS

When South led the king of clubs from dummy, West refused the trick. Declarer continued with the queen of clubs, and West refused that too.

A third club rode to the ace, and West carefully returned the jack of diamonds to make sure that dummy had to win the trick.

By this time dummy was reduced to three diamonds. South had one diamond and two trumps. South couldn't get to his hand to draw East's last trump. He had to lead a diamond from dummy, allowing East to ruff and thus take the setting trick.

SOUTH'S MISTAKE

South made his mistake at the second trick. When he led the ace of spades from his hand, he should have dropped dummy's nine of spades on the trick. Later, he would be able to lead the deuce of spades from dummy to finesse through East's ten. This would permit South to win in his own hand with the eight of spades and draw the last trump with the king.

2.06.030. Deputies.

A deputy or assistant of any of the officers designated in Section 2 shall be subject to the provisions of Section 3625.

2.06.040. Substantial Conflict.

An economic interest in substantial conflict with the proper exercise of an official's duties within the meaning of Section 3625(a) shall not be deemed to exist unless the official would be required to disqualify himself under Section 3625(b) on a continuous and regular basis from activities and actions which constitute a major and significant portion of his official duties and thereby impair his ability to function effectively and fulfill the duties of his office.

2.06.050. Material Economic Effect.

An action or decision shall not be deemed to have a material effect on an economic interest unless the official has reason to believe that, by reason of the action or decision, an investment, or interest in real property, may increase or decrease in value, other than neglibibly, or a business entity from which the official derives income or in which he holds a position of employment or management will gain or lose monetarily, other than negligibly. An increase or decrease of less than one per cent of the value of an investment, or interest in real property, shall be deemed negligible.

2.06.060. Ministerial and Clerical Duties.

Section 3625(b) shall apply only to actions which involve discretion or judgment. It does not apply to actions which are solely ministerial or clerical, including but not limited to the following:

1. Mandatory Filings
2. Collection of fees and fines
3. Duplication and distribution of Public Records
4. Rendition of required legal notices
5. Preparation and adoption of Minutes
6. Building permits for projects which do not require further discretionary or administrative review.
7. Non-discretionary sign permits.
8. Annual renewal of existing permits which do not involve new construction.
9. Demolition of buildings or other work required as a consequence of code enforcement.
10. Sewer connection permits.
11. Land conservation and open space contracts.

2.06.070. Participation.

(a) The terms "participate," and "attempt to influence" as used in Section 3625(b) shall be deemed to include the following:

1. Participation in debate or deliberations or voting.
2. Preparation of oral or written reports.
3. Rendition of oral or written advice.
4. Testimony before a public agency.
5. Discussions with any official who must decide the matter.
6. Submission of letters or other documents to any official who must decide the matter.
7. Issuance or denial of official approvals.

(b) Nothing contained herein or in Section 3625 shall abridge the right of any citizen, whether or not a public official, to submit information or express views on the same basis as any other private citizen, provided such is done in public and the person indicates that he is acting in a private capacity.

(c) An official directly involved in a matter, whether as a party, an applicant or otherwise, may, in his private capacity, provide whatever information is necessary and perform any other steps which are required of other citizens in the same situation, individually or by counsel. He may not, however, discuss the matter privately with officials who must decide the matter.

2.06.080. Necessity.

(a) An official shall not be subject to Section 3625(b) with respect to any matter which cannot be legally acted upon or decided without his participation.

(b) Section 3625(d) shall apply where:

1. A statutory quorum cannot be achieved by continuance for a reasonable time or within legally mandated time limits; or
2. More than a simple majority vote is required to take a proposed action and the number of officials entitled to vote is less than the number of votes required for the action to be taken; or
3. The official is, by law, the sole officer who can perform the action or make the decision.

(c) In cases where Subsections (b) (1) or (b) (2) of this section apply, all otherwise disqualified officials shall be entitled to participate.

(d) In all cases involving exceptions hereunder, the official shall comply with Section 3625(d).

2.06.090. Disqualification.

An official who refrains from acting in accordance with Section 3625(b) need not declare the nature of the interest which disqualifies him.

2.06.100. Interpretation.

An official who is unsure of the application or nature of the prohibitions contained in Section 3625 may secure a written opinion from the County Counsel. When said opinion is complied with in the good faith belief that it is consistent with the provisions of the Governmental Conflict of Interests Act and these guidelines, he shall thereafter be entitled to rely on said opinion in discharging his official duties and shall be exempt from the civil penalties of Section 3751 and the sanctions of Section 3753.

2.06.110. Limitations on Actions.

(a) No action shall be brought pursuant to Section 3751 of the Government Code to restrain the execution of or to set aside as void any decision, contract, order, permit, ordinance, resolution or other official action unless the complaint or petition has been filed and served within thirty (30) days following the decision, contract, order, permit, ordinance, resolution or other official action.

(b) No action shall be brought pursuant to Section 3751 of the Government Code to enjoin an official from violating or to compel an official to comply with the provisions of the Government Conflict of Interests Act or of this ordinance, unless the complaint or petition has been filed and served within 180 days after the violation of Section 3625 has occurred.

SECTION II. Urgency.

This ordinance shall take effect as an urgency measure immediately upon its adoption. The Board of Supervisors declares that it is necessary to the public peace, health, safety and welfare that this ordinance be adopted as an urgency measure. The facts sontituting the urgency are: The Government Conflict of Interests Act became effective on January 1, 1974. That Act creates serious and multiple obligations for public officials covered by the Act, confers broad enforcement rights upon members of the public and authorizes public agencies to adopt guidelines to aid public officials and members of the public in interpreting and applying the complicated provisions of the Act. Therefore, the Board of Supervisors deems it essential that the guidelines adopted by this ordinance pursuant to the Governmental Conflict of Interest Act be effective immediately to avoid inadvertent violations of the Act, to prevent unmeritorious challenges to public actions and to provide maximum public protection under the Act.

SECTION III. Severability.

If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase be declared invalid.

SECTION IV. Publication.

This ordinance shall be and is hereby declared to be in full force and effect from and after the date of its passage and shall be published once before the expiration of fifteen (15) days after its passage, with the names of the Supervisors voting for and against the same in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the County of Marin.

The foregoing ordinance was passed and adopted on the 19th day of March, 1974, by the following vote:

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Carbon Monoxide Aggravates Condition Of Angina Pectoris

In this country, carbon monoxide is found mainly in tobacco smoke and the exhaust of automobiles and trucks. There is no doubt that the gas aggravates angina pectoris by lessening the amount of exertion a victim can do before chest pain develops.

Normally, the hemoglobin in blood picks up its oxygen in the lungs and delivers it to the tissues of the body. But whenever hemoglobin has a choice between carbon monoxide and oxygen, it will select monoxide 200 to one. Furthermore, CO remains in the blood for several hours and the ill effects usually stem from the tissues being robbed of much needed oxygen.

THE SITUATION is somewhat similar to having a narrowed hardened artery that fails to deliver enough blood (and oxygen) to an organ. This oxygen deficiency is no different from blood containing too little oxygen (due to CO flowing through normal arteries). The trouble begins when the arteries are already narrowed and the individual inhales too much monoxide. This is why CO exposure aggravates angina pectoris.

Air usually contains some carbon monoxide. A safe limit is 35 parts per million (ppm). When inhaled, this leads to levels up to 1 per cent in the hemoglobin content of the blood. On Los Angeles freeways the CO in the air reaches as high as 147 ppm.

DRIVING WITH the windows open leads to blood levels up to 5 per cent — still low enough to prevent acute poisoning in a normal person.

Cigarette smoke has been called concentrated air pollution. Inhalers get about 475 ppm per cigarette. Pack-a-day smokers subject their systems to considerable monoxide. In fact, CO levels of up to 90 ppm. have been measured passing across the faces of people seated next to smokers.

Breathing 50 ppm CO for four to five hours raises the CO content of hemoglobin from 1.3 to 2.9 per cent, an amount that is enough to alter the exercise performance of a person with angina. And if this person is a smoker, the blood level may go up to 16 to 18 per cent CO.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

SINUSITIS IN CHILDREN

Mrs. C. writes: Can a young child suffer form sinus?

REPLY

Sinus infection in very young children is rare: it is more common between the ages of 4 and 10. The exception is ethmoiditis, which may occur from birth on. The ethmoid, in contrast to the other sinuses, is well developed in the newborn, hence is vulnerable to bacteria or allergy.

HEART INFECTION

R. T. writes: Is subacute bacterial endocarditis a complication of rheumatic heart disease?

REPLY

Yes. The battle-scarred valves of a person with this type of heart disease are susceptible to streptococci that enter the body during respiratory infections or following the extraction of teeth. The microorganisms settle in the heart valves and form wartlike growths that break off and are propelled to all parts of the body by the blood. This is true blood poisoning, a condition that was 100 per cent fatal before penicillin.

Policeman Now Faces Murder Indictment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — City policeman John Driscoll now faces a murder indictment in the fatal shooting of a Santa Rosa drugstore manager.

The grand jury ordered the district attorney yesterday to prepare an indictment against Driscoll in the March 16 death of Michael Stinnet, 23.

Driscoll, 33, an eight-year veteran of the force who was off duty at the time of the shooting, pleaded innocent to the murder charge in municipal court last week. He is free on $25,000 bail.

Driscoll told police he spent an hour and a half in a financial district bar after working on St. Patrick's Day. When he emerged, Driscoll said he found an unruly crowd of some 150 sidewalk celebrants, so he pulled his pistol to fire a warning shot. However, someone grabbed his arm, he said, and the gun accidentally discharged, killing Stinnet.

French Envoy Discusses Oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — French Ambassador Jacques Kosciusko-Morizet yesterday Moonday called on acting Secretary of State Kenneth Rush to express orally his government's strong displeasure of press reports from Washington alleging that Foreign Minister Michel Jobert or some other official had tried to get the Arabs to maintain the boycott.

During the meeting which lasted less than 15 minutes, Rush told the ambassador U.S. spokesmen, since the reports appeared, had been responding to questions by saying the United States had no evidence to support charges against Jobert.

'UPSTAIRS, DOWNSTAIRS'

Parlor Maid's Rise To Glory

By ARTHUR UNGER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A cockney parlor maid is making a clean sweep of the television popularity charts, first in England and now in America.

Her name is Rose Buck, and she is one of the characters in the current Masterpiece Theater series, "Upstairs, Downstairs," which depicts life in an Edwardian household.

The series is nearing the end of its first U.S. run. In England, where Jean Marsh, who plays Rose, was voted Britain's best female television personality, the show is in its third new round of 13 segments.

As well as being one of the stars, Miss Marsh is also co-creator of the show, with her long-time actress friend Eileen Atkins. These two cockney daughters of parents in domestic service are "cleaning up" — financially as well, since they own 50 per cent of the proceeds.

"Upstairs, Downstairs" is aired on commercial television in Britain, while it runs in the U.S. on educational channels. This accounts for the fact that in the U.S. each 52-minute segment is augmented by an eight-minute Alistair Cooke sociological treatise on life in Edwardian England.

Miss Marsh is currently touring the U.S. to promote her show.

She explains that she is making her coast-to-coast tour in an attempt to bolster the popularity of the show, which debuted with high (for PBS) ratings but sagged a bit in succeeding segments. Miss Marsh, as well as many critics, attributes this to the fact that there was a rather great jump in plot and character from the opening segment to the second segment. Why?

MAID'S LIFE — Jean Marsh plays the part of Rose Buck in the popular series, "Upstairs, Downstairs." Not only is she one of the stars but she helps create the show.

"After Eileen and I dreamed up the idea, we wrote it all out, including a family tree and a complete list of who should be downstairs. We showed it to the London Weekend people (TV producers) and everything sailed through unbelieveably . . . until the first day of filming. There was a technicians' strike, which forced us to record the first six segments in black and white. When it was sold, we reshot the opening segment in color and matched it to the seventh segment, leaving out the five black-and-whites. Here, in America they are showing a selection of 13 of the initial 26. In England we have completed 39, and when I go home we will be working on the fourth series."

Will U.S. audiences ever see those missing five segments?

"In England last year they repeated the color series in the summer, and we rated in the top 10. When people heard about the missing five there was a great outcry, and finally they showed the black-and-white segments just in a lump. It is fantastic in black and white — the downstairs is so austere. And there is such strong, interesting stuff in those five — maybe there will be enough of a demand here for PBS to run them later on."

Miss Marsh has done very little for the past few years other than "Upstairs, Downstairs," because each segment takes two weeks to shoot, as compared to perhaps four days for a series segment here. But she also has a distinguished career in theater, movies, and television. She spent more than three years in the U.S., during which she appeared in "Much Ado About Nothing" on Broadway, toured in "Look Back in Anger," did a TV production of "The Moon and Sixpence" with Laurence Olivier, and most recently played Mrs. Rochester in the TV production of "Jane Eyre." She has appeared in many segments of "Twilight Zone," "The Saint" and "I Spy."

"Next, I'd like to do a mixture of things. First off, I'd like to write a little more seriously. I haven't actually written any of the 'Upstairs' segments completely because I feel too shy to write a whole script. You know, I could force them to let me, but I somehow feel it wouldn't be a free choice for them."

Harnessing Energy Of The Sun May Depend On Horseshoe Crab

By DAVID F. SALISBURY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The eye of the horseshoe crab may hold the key to harnessing solar energy.

In the murky waters of a hundred million years ago, an early species of horseshoe crab developed a special form of compound eye that gathered light efficiently.

So efficiently, in fact, that its simple design should be capable of turning sunlight into electricity without using cumbersome mirrors to track the sun across the sky.

In 1966 a physicist of the Enrico Fermi Institute at the University of Chicago rediscovered the same design. He was trying to develop a light collector for one of his experiments, and he did not realize what he had at the time.

However, Robert Sachs, director of the Argonne National Laboratory in Illinois, felt that the device — a funnel that worked for light — represented a breakthrough in solar energy research.

At his suggestion, the discoverer, Roland Winston, and a colleague, Dr. Riccardo Levi-Setti, began last summer to adapt it to harness solar energy.

Enough sunlight falls on all the roofs in the United States, a recent survey shows, to supply the nation's present electrical needs; but sunlight is diffuse and must be concentrated before it can be used to create economical electric power.

Until now, the major effort in building large solar energy plants has been through the use of dished mirrors that focus the image of the sun on a specially coated pipe. Gas or molten metal flowing through this pipe carries off the heat.

In order to be efficient, the mirrors must track the sun, involving expensive machinery.

These designs also must keep the sun's image focused. They use only direct sunlight, and the mirrors only focus a part of the sun on the heat-collecting pipes. Several models have proved less efficient than expected.

Winston's concept is radically different. It is not at all concerned with imaging, but just with collecting as much light as possible.

"I didn't know much about optics, or have any preconceived ideas," he says. "I asked the right question and was lucky enough to come up with the solution."

The original design used in the 1966 physics experiment is an unside-down cone with curving parabolic sides and a small hole at the bottom. Virtually all of the light that strayed into the top came out the bottom. It collected diffuse light like the sunlight on a cloudy day as well as direct sunlight. But at that time Winston did not think of its application to solar energy production.

In 1971, the physicist learned from a noted ophthalmologist that cells in the human retina have the same shape. In 1973 Dr. Levi-Setti associated it with the eyes of the horseshoe crab.

In January, Winston and his collaborators at Argonne received research grants from the National Science Foundation and the Atomic Energy Commission to develop this concept.

As early as 1958, solar energy researchers had dismissed the stationary collector of light for all but hot water heating, and perhaps solar air-conditioning. They calculated that it could concentrate the sun's light by at most two to three times its normal intensity — still not enough for power generation. But they were thinking in terms of images, says Sachs.

Winston has developed a solar collector that consists of a series of troughs with the proper parabolic sides. Placed parallel to the path of the sun in the sky, each trough would send a thin stream of concentrated light on the absorptive pipe beneath, no matter at what angle sunlight falls on it. It should collect the sun's rays efficiently during daylight hours with only seasonal reorientations.

The design appears applicable for rooftop use, and theoretically can meet the requirements for solar air-conditioning as well as heating, Winston says. Large cone-shaped collectors could provide heat at thousands of degrees for two to three hours a day to fire a solar furnace.

Freedom Tree

WASHINGTON (UPI) — South Vietnam Ambassador Tran Kim Phuon will receive a "Freedom Tree" dedication at the Vietnam Embassy on Wednesday from Voices in Vital America (VIVA), an organization which describes itself as "dedicated to those who preserve our freedom, shall it forever endure."

Widow Receives Federal Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Assocation of Government Employees (NAGE) said yesterday the widow of a government employee who was fired six months after he died has had pension and other benefits restored totaling almost $120,000.

The union said the employee, who was not identified, worked for 27 years without blemish for the Defense Supply Agency. Then he started suffering severe head pains and blackouts and was hospitalized twice and arrested once while wandering nude in Washington.

Six months after his death, NAGE said, the DSA decided to fire him, retroactive to a date prior to his death.

Sixteen months after the man's death, the Civil Service Commission's Board of Review ruled the firing illegal, making his widow eligible for almost $120,000 in life insurance, back pay and a survivorship annuity.

Plant Could Help Solve Paper Shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said yesterday a new, quick-growing plant found in Africa, Central America and parts of Russia could help solve the shortage of timber used in paper-making.

The plant, called Kenaf, could provide harvests of more than 20 tons per acre under good conditions in parts of Florida and Texas, according to current studies conducted by the Department's Agricultural Research Service. They said the plant could be grown as far north as North Carolina.

Paper pulp can be made from the woody stems of the plant which reach heights of 12 to 20 feet at time of harvest.

Dog Sled Race Is Won Easily

NOME, Alaska (UPI) — Carl Huntington of Galena, Alaska, literally ran away from the field in winning the 2,000-mile trail dogsled race from Anchorage to Nome.

Huntington, 26, an Athabascan Indian, reached Nome shortly after midnight Saturday. The race began in Anchorage March 2.

Race officials said the closest of the 38 other competitors still in the race was about 100 miles behind Huntington when he crossed the finish line.

Albert Calls Nixon's 'U-Haul' Statement 'Wild Defensive Plan'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert says President Nixon's remark that the House Judiciary Committee wants to carry away White House Watergate documents in a U-haul trailer is a "wild defensive maneuver" that is almost beneath the dignity of the presidency.

In one of his bluntest statements yet on efforts to impeach the President for his handling of Watergate, Albert also said he believed Nixon had lost more ground with House members in the last two or three months than he did "through the entire previous eight or nine months."

He made the statement yesterday on Straight Talk, a weekly interview produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and carried by the Public Broadcasting Service.

Asked why he thought Nixon was losing House support, Albert said he believed there is a feeling that the President "has unfairly attacked the (Judiciary) committee which is given a job when the committee hasn't really given him any occasion to do this."

"I mean such statements as they might want to take a U-haul and go down to the White House and carry back all the documents they can find...It seems to me that that statement by itself is a wild defensive maneuver on the part of the President and almost beneath the dignity of the office of President...

"I'm surprised the President would say a thing like that."

Albert, who would preside if the impeachment issue came to the House floor, said he had reached no personal conclusions as to whether Nixon should be impeached.

Burma Fighting

RANGOON (UPI) — The government said yesterday 90 persons were killed and more than 160 wounded on both sides in fighting last week between government forces and rebels in southeast Burma.

Richmond Bus Strike Settled

RICHMOND (UPI) — The school bus strike was settled last night, but officials said full service will not be available until tomorrow.

Patchett Bus and Transportation Co. and Teamsters Local 57 reached an agreement calling for a pay boost of 50 cents an hour. The drivers had been earning between $2.40 and $3.40 an hour.

An official at the company said some of the buses were damaged during negotiations, resulting in the delay in restoration of service.

Hearst Hopeful Food Giveaway Will Work

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The parents of Patricia Hearst prayed today that giving away of 32,000 cartons of food to the needy would bring some word from the kidnapers of their daughter.

The giveaway, conducted under rain-laden skies at 17 locations in the San Francisco Bay Area, was the last.

Cost of the beef, poultry, fish, fresh produce and canned goods distributed yesterday exhausted the $2 million food fund established by Patricia's father, Randolph Hearst.

Hearst and his wife left after the giveaway was in full swing to attend a meeting in New York of the board of directors of the Hearst Corp., which has pledged another $4 million for the food handout when Patricia is released.

"The next move is up to the SLA," said Hearst of the terrorist Symbioese Liberation Army which took Patricia from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

"We haven't heard from them in over a week."

Traffic Study Before Council

The Sausalito City Council will discuss the scope and cost of a study of traffic conditions in the city at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

The council also will consider a request by Councilman Violeta Autumn to rescind its approval of the 12-unit Glen Grove condominium project.

Councilmen are to meet in closed session at 7 p.m. to interview six applicants for an opening on the planning commission, according to City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie.

Accident Victim Is Satisfactory

Susan V. McLaren, 27, of Stinson Beach was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital following a two-car crash yesterday on Panoramic Highway west of Mill Valley.

The California Highway Patrol said Mrs. McLaren was eastbound on the road about 1 p.m. when her auto and one driven by Ernest R. Gomez, 20, of 149 Ignacio Boulevard, Novato, collided. Officers said the Gomez vehicle skidded into the eastbound lane.

Mrs. McLaren was hospitalized with bruises, scrapes and cuts.

Foreman Is Hurt

Bout On Tonight Despite Bad Knee

Combined AP & UPI

CARACAS, Venezuela — Heavyweight champion George Foreman, limping on an injured knee, spent some time at a hospital today but said he was all right and that he would defend his title as scheduled against Ken Norton tonight.

Foreman said the injury which sent him to a hospital for an examination was a pinched nerve in his right knee.

As aides helped the limping champion back to his hotel room after a visit of about one-half hour to the hospital, Foreman answered newsmen's shouts of "George, George, are you all right?" by saying "Yeah, I'm okay."

The injury apparently occurred while Foreman was visiting a police station near his hotel to invite policemen to the fight.

The sudden development, which threatened to cancel the fight, came amid a continuing squabble over officials and reports that the Venezuelan government had come up with a new tax on the fighters.

Foreman's trainer, Dick Sadler, had been arguing for an American referee, but the Venezuelan boxing commission has stood firm on its decision to use a local referee and judges.

Meanwhile, The World Boxing Council (WBC) announced today it will not recognize the fight in Caracas tonight because of a lack of cooperation by the Venezuelan Boxing Commission and the rival World Boxing Association.

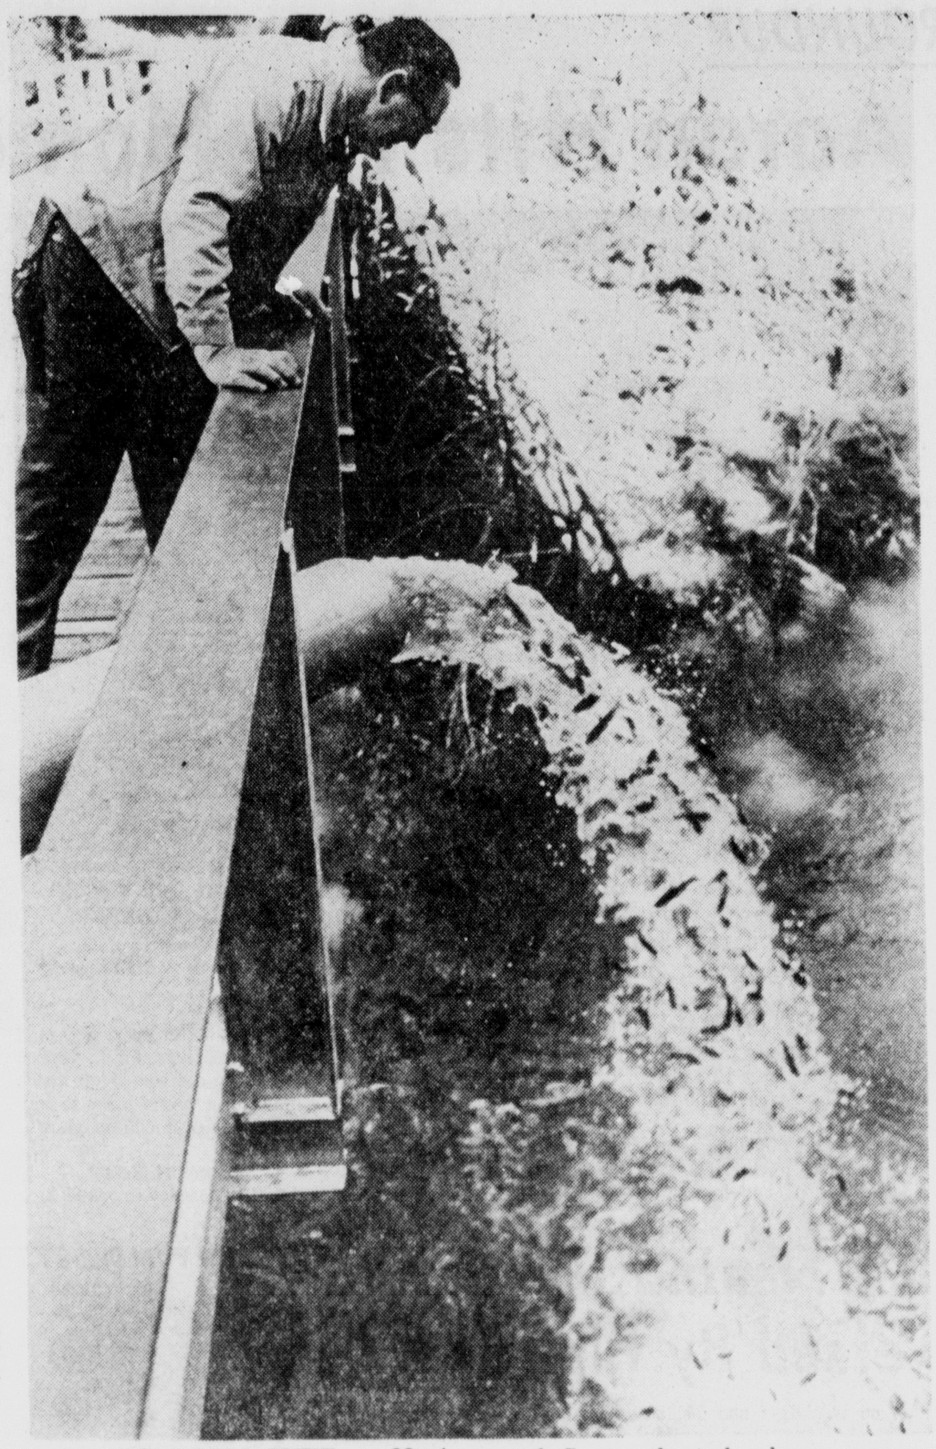
WBC president Ramon Velasquez made the announcement from his Mexico City offices.

Velasquez said the Venezuelan commission was in default of an agreement made with the WBC which would be named sponsor of the championship and entrusted with the appointment of the officials — the referee and two judges.

Norton's co-manager, Robert Brion, agreed to a Venezuelan referee.

Both sides agreed to the 10-point scoring system and the use of eight-ounce gloves.

Foreman, who has a perfect 39-0 record, will receive $700,000 against 40 per cent of all the revenue, while Norton, the second-ranked contender, was guaranteed $200,000 against 20 per cent. The total take was expected to be up to $3 million.



LOOKING 'EM OVER — Marin County game warden Al Giddings kept a supervisory eye on things as the state Department of Fish and Game planted salmon yearlings in Paper Mill Creek March 13.

SMALL FRY — Tiny yearlings, 17 to the pound, will grow into full-sized salmon and return to the creek in two years if the planting program is successful.

IN MARIN STREAMS

Decline Of Salmon

BY LEW CODDINGTON

Up the banks they climbed, in smaller numbers than before, shaking their heads slowly and muttering curses or soft words of despair. It was not a joyous winter for these men, the fishers of Marin.

Most of them can remember better times, when plentiful runs of salmon and steelhead in Marin County streams made fishing a pleasure. Things have not been that way for some time now, and there is some question if they ever will be again.

The fish runs are less than one fifth of what they used to be, due to a variety of reasons, and it is not yet known whether the Department of Fish and Game's planting programs will be able to change that, according to game warden Al Giddings of Woodacre.

And the problem in Marin's streams is being duplicated time and again in other streams in California.

At the root of the problem is the fact that the salmon, a strong fighting fish at maturity, lives a sheltered, delicate existence in shallow and vulnerable streams during its first year.

"All of the creeks and all of their tributaries are nursery areas for eggs, and for small fish until they are one year old," said Giddings, an I-J outdoors columnist. "Then they go out to sea. The typical silver salmon, which is what you find in Marin, comes back in three years as an eight to 12-pound adult fish."

These adults, fighting their way upstream, are eagerly caught by Marin fishermen. When they can be found.

"The downfall started in Paper Mill Creek and Nicasio Creek when they built Nicasio Reservoir and Kent Dam," said Giddings. "That reduced 10 miles of spawning area to about 20."

No Appreciation In Complete Collapse

Gads! What in the world happened to the Warriors coming down the homestretch of the National Basketball Association regular season? What was a season long two-horse race for the Pacific Division title ended in a walk-away for the L.A. Lakers.

Teams of all sports have been known to fold in the waning days of seasons, but this one was complete. Oh how complete. After winning back-to-back games with the Lakers a few days ago, it looked like it was going to be the Warriors all the way. But then the bottom fell out, with a gurgling, choking sound. There were five straight losses, to teams such as the Seattle Supersonics, Phoenix Suns and Buffalo Braves. Those teams are not exactly the powerhouses of the NBA. Coupled with the last loss was the mathematical elimination from the race which had turned into an unrace.

JUST 10 DAYS ago, after the Warriors had soundly beaten the Lakers by 30 points, Golden State appeared on its way to the playoffs. That was then. Now is now.

Explanations for the sudden collapse come in many forms. Some say it was the loss of Nate Thurmond, sidelined the last few weeks with a painful instep. Others point toward that grueling closing schedule, one which called for 18 games in the last 26 days of the season. Or was it possible that the Warriors reached such an emotional "high" after that Laker two-game sweep they couldn't come down to reality and tend to the work at hand, namely beating the supposedly weaker opposition in the final few games?

There is still another possibility mentioned frequently: the Warriors were not playing as a team, but more like 12 individuals. It was obvious the Warriors were not playing to their capability. They continued to make turnovers, about the only thing they did consistently throughout the season.

BUT THE CONSISTENCY in the positive aspects of the game, scoring points and playing good defense, was not to be found. So, as the players hung their heads and the fans shook theirs, the division title went slipping through fingers like so many grains of sand.

Bay Area basketball fans like to be with winners, and second best will not do, as the Giants found out when their attendance slipped during that stretch when it seemed they were always finishing in second place.

A collapse such as that performed by the Warriors leaves many fans bitter. And bitter fans stay home more than happy ones. That's why Warrior officials are expecting only 4,000 to show up for tonight's final home game of the season against Portland, fan appreciation night when the Warrior organization raffles off $11,000 in gifts. The Warriors ownership will show its appreciation by handing out jewelry and clothes. Many of the bitter fans will show their appreciation by staying home to watch "Come Back Little Sheba," or "The Happy Days" on television.

ANYWAY, THE WHOLE season is over for the Warriors when they get a televised rematch with the Trail Blazers in Portland tomorrow night. They have all summer to spend thinking about "how things could have been."

Wait 'til next year, fans.

McGuire's Technicals Help For State

By CHARLIE SMITH

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — Al McGuire opened the door for David Thompson. And that's akin to walking in front of a runaway truck —you just shouldn't do it.

McGuire, the Marquette coach, drew two technical fouls in less than a minute near the end of the first half last night and Thompson did the rest.

Thompson, a junior AllAmerican, fired top-ranked North Carolina State to its first National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championship in the 76-64 triumph over Marquette.

"The technicals gave us a lift," said Thompson, who was voted the tournament's Most Outstanding Player. "The game was close then, and we got a five-point play out of it (the first technical). That inspired us to play better defense."

McGuire maintained he "lost the game" by blowing his cool, but the truth is North Carolina State had the best team, anyway. The Wolfpack had proven it Saturday in the 80-77 double overtime victory over seven-time champion UCLA.

But Thompson said ending UCLA's reign had no bearing last night.

"We talked about a letdown after playing UCLA, but playing for the national championship is enough incentive," said the 6-foot-4 jumping jack.

Marquette's demise occurred this way:

Marcus Washington drove for a layup, putting the Warriors ahead, 28-27, with 2:48 left in the first half. But Washington charged Thompson on the play and, when the foul was called, McGuire jumped off the bench, walked to the official scorer's table, and kicked the NCAA emblem.

The umpire, Jim Howell of the Southern Conference, called a technical on McGuire. Thompson promptly flipped in three straight free shots, none drawing iron, and the Wolfpack received the ball at midcourt.

When 7-foot-4 Tom Burleson whirled for a layup, North Carolina State had a five-point play and a 32-28 lead.

Burleson repeated his previous move with 2:13 left for a 34-28 advantage.

Then 5-foot-5 ½ Monte Towe stole the ball and flipped a long pass to Joe Spence. Bo Ellis was ruled guilty of goaltending on Spence's layup with 1:55 left in the half. The play occurred in front of the Marquette bench and McGuire rushed onto the floor.

Referee Irv Brown from the Western Athletic Conference did the honors this time, forming the "T" with his hands.

And Thompson converted again, giving the Wolfpack a 37-28 lead, which advanced to 39-30 at halftime.

After the intermission, North Carolina State spurted, 12-2, in the first five minutes of the second half and the outcome was obvious.

Thompson, who scored 21 points, started the spree with a three-point play. The spurt expanded North Carolina State's advantage to 51-32 with 15:13 left and the remaining time was just for the sake of the 15,742 fans and the national television audience.

McGuire admitted that if it hadn't been for the technical calls, his team would have lost, anyway.

"North Carolina State is a better ball club than Marquette University," he said.

But he declined to discuss what he thought was wrong with the two calls that brought him the technicals.

"I would rather not, because I was absolutely right," he said. "Let's get something straight. I wouldn't say that I was right if I wasn't right."

Wolfpack coach Norm Sloan's only reference to the technicals was, "They didn't hurt anything."

He added, "I told our team they deserve to be national champions. I would have been heartbroken if we had not won it."

North Carolina State Tim Stoddard perhaps summed it up best:

"We got a few breaks right before the half and went up by nine. The technicals helped us get the lead. Marquette is awfully tough on defense."

The victory allowed North Carolina State to finish with a 30-1 record, while Marquette closed out at 26-5.

In the third-place game, UCLA didn't go all out, but the Bruins did when it counted, running off 14 straight points early in the second half en route to a 78-61 victory over Kansas.

Joining Thompson on the all tournament team were Towe and Burleson, Bill Walton o UCLA, and Maurice Lucas o Marquette.

Sharon's Serve Isn't Enough

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sharon Walsh's serve impressed Chris Evert last night, but it was not enough.

Miss Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. defeated her San Rafael rival, 6-4, 6-3, in the second round of the $60,000 U.S. Lawn Tennis Association tournament.

Chris, second seeded by Billie Jean King, was down 1-3 in the first set but reeled off four straight games. She took the set in the 10th game, which she won at love.

Miss Evert broke Sharon in the fifth and seventh games of the second set but was taken to deuce before winning. "I had trouble returning her serves," Chris said, "but fortunately I was serving well."

Sharon said: "Yeah, I kept looking for her second serve but I never saw it."

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Striper Trolling Is Paying Off

How sweet it is! If you read this column last Friday and then went fishing, you should have caught at least one big striper over the weekend. It was predicted that the stripers should be hitting trolled lures at the Richmond Bridge on or about March 23.

Would you believe it? Frank Spencer, the keeper at the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier, called me early Saturday morning to say that two boars were out there just "murdering" the fish. Yep, Paul O'Neil and a buddy took six stripers from nine to 23 pounds, and Red and Bunky Scanlon had five. I questioned Frank if there were many boats out. He said, "Nope, just the two; but by tomorrow (Sunday) morning you'll need reservations!"

THE FISHING continued good with Ray Lenci's crew getting seven. Louie Lenci, the 84-year-old pro had one on so big it busted his line. Trolling was also good at The Brothers Islands with Dick Haas and Bill Boyle, both from Santa Venetia, taking three. Dick's fish, a 22-pounder, was his life's biggest. The 11-year-old fishing kid, Todd Denton, who practically makes his home at the Loch Lomond Bait Barge, nailed a 19-pounder at the bridge. In fact, almost all of the early morning anglers fishing the incoming tide at the Bridge took fish. Now you can't beat that.

Do you want more? Harold Lansing of the Loch Lomond Chevron Station brought in a 26-pounder, and Frank DeRosa nailed a 21-pounder, then lost all his gear on the next fish. All were large fresh run unspawned fish.

I RECEIVED SOME good reports of sturgeon jumping and rolling off Elephant Rock near Tiburon. Word had it that the fish were really boiling the water there. One unidentified angler was reported getting an 80-pounder, and another supposedly took a 168-pounder off Belvedere Point at Sausalito. Also there was one lone angler dressed in yellow foul weather gear attempting to illeglly snag fish.

SATURDAY EVENING I went down to the Marin Rod and Gun Club's annual crab feed. About 275 people showed up and proceeded to chow down on 900 pounds of cooked cracked crab. After the feed, club president Ken Watts asked everyone if he enjoyed the feast. From the unanimous chorus of "ayes" he received in answer, I'm sure everyone enjoyed themselves.

At one point Ollie Quan of China Camp and some of his cohorts came over just to "sling the bull." All were pros in the bass fishing fraternity, naturally. But would you believe it? A few weeks ago when I had mentioned in the column that using mudsuckers seemed to be the hottest bass catching method in the upper San Pablo Bay, these guys thought I was just pulling their legs. They hadn't even heard of a mudsucker. Then they spent some time checking boats for catches and bait used. It didn't take them long to learn this new angle. Ollie's wife, Maryann has even come up with a method of fooling those big stripers who are partial to female mudsuckers. She say's all you have to do is put lipstick on the males. Now that's good thinking.

I CHECKED SOME of the shore anglers around China Camp, Buckeye Point and McNear's Beach. Some of these fellows would surprise you with their catches of bass and flounders. One angler even had a 24-inch halibut. Not to be out of it, some of the shore anglers have been doing well with mudsuckers as bait. You've got to properly bait this fish to your hook. Most of the fellows are using the mudsuckers live on a salmon trolling hook, baiting them from the head to the tail. The hook is at the head end, as the bass swallow these baits head first. You also must permit the bass to take 30 feet of line or so, so that the fish really has the bait solidly in its mouth. If you set the hook too fast, you will miss hooking the fish.

The perch fishing also has been good, with reports of redtails, yellowtails, pogees, barred and silver perch all being on the stringers. The kids around Loch Lomond are cleaning up and having a ball. Seven-year-old kids are even getting into the act much to Dad's pleasure.

THE SALMON FISHING fell off somewhat this week. The pressure has really been heavy, and so many motors could have moved the fish. This happened Sunday at the Richmond Bridge where about 20 boats really stirred up the waters. After all, these fish can be frightened off by the continual roar of the motors, especially when the bridge waters at low tide may be only eight to 10 feet deep. Seek the quiet areas for best results. This week should be ideal in the early mornings with the incoming tides. See you there!

Loch Lomond Race

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Alas, Aaron Hits His Homer For Naught

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Hank Aaron finally did it.

He "broke" Babe Ruth's all-time home run record, and here came the Atlanta Braves streaming out of the dugout to congratulate him, pound him on the back and swarm all over him, but there was only one thing wrong.

It didn't count.

"Whatta shame, Henry!" bellowed one fan seated behind the plate at Pompano Beach's Municipal Stadium yesterday as Aaron came trotting across after rocketing his second homer of the spring. "Whatta shame it doesn't count. Don't worry, though, you'll get it in Atlanta."

Even if Aaron's second homer of the spring didn't count, some of the Braves in the dugout, fully aware it would've been No. 715, pretended it did and came out to glad hand their 40-year-old superstar after he clipped Texas righthander Pete Broberg for a two-run shot in the ninth inning.

Broberg had been doing all right in relief of starter Fergy Jenkins, but then he came in with a fast ball, a little high, and Aaron showed the crowd of 1,018 on hand he has his home run stroke all ready and polished up by depositing the ball over the left centerfield fence. There was nothing shabby about Aaron's homer. He really hit it —into the wind, too.

The Rangers won the ball game anyway, 4-3, primarily because hot-hitting Jeff Burroughs tagged loser Ron Reed for a two-run homer in the first inning.

Cardinals 5 Pirates 4

Steve Blass pitched four innings of hitless ball for Pittsburgh, the only trouble being he walked a few people in that time, nine to be exact, and that enabled St. Louis to come away a 5-4 winner.

Angels 4 Athletics 2

Bobby Valentine keeps showing the Angels the leg he broke is getting better every day, and in Palm Springs, Calif., yesterday all he did was single twice and steal a pair of bases to help beat the world champion Athletics, 4-2.

Tigers 14 Mets 0

Mickey Stanley knocked in a pair of runs with a first inning double, the big blow in a four-run rally by the Tigers, and kept right on going with three more hits in a 14-0 embarrassment of the Mets.

Dodgers 5 Twins 4

The Dodgers made it nine in a row by beating the Twins, 5-4, in 10 innings. Poor Twins. They can't win for losing, their spring record standing now at 3 and 18. Bert Blyleven started them out with five scoreless innings and they carried a 4-0 lead into the eighth, but the Dodgers rallied to tie the score, then won the ball game in the 10th when Willie Crawford doubled home Steve Yeager.

Cubs 8 Indians 6

Spring, Summer or Fall, Billy Williams hits 'em all the same way he did in Tucson, Ariz., yesterday when he drove in three runs, including the tie-breaker, in the Cubs' 8-6 victory over the Indians.

Royals 4 Yankees 1

Fernando Gonzales and Fred Patek, a pair of former Pittsburghers, stroked home runs off Fritz Peterson to help the Royals conquer the Yankees, 4-1.

Red Sox 5 Expos 4

Defense did the Expos in for the second straight day, with the Red Sox registering a 5-4 victory over them when Montreal first baseman Ron Fairly mishandled an easy bouncer in the eighth. That permitted the tying run to score and pinch hitter Juan Beniquez then singled home the winner.

Phillies 11 Tigers "B" 9

Mike Anderson reeled off four hits, including a two-run homer, and Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt also had two-run homers in the Phillies' 11-9 triumph over the Tigers' B team.

Orioles 3 White Sox 2

Reliever John Lamb wild-pitched home the winning run in the Orioles' 3-2 decision over the White Sox. Lefthander Dave McNally gave up seven hits in the eight innings he worked and was the winner.

Astros 2 Reds 1

The Astros shaded the Reds, 2-1, with Dave Campbell singling home the winning run off reliever Clay Carroll

CLOSE PLAY — Minnesota Twins' Jerry Terrell dove back to first base, barely beating the tag by Los Angeles Dodgers' first baseman Steve Garvey on a pick-off attempt yesterday at Vero Beach, Fla.

Marin Salmon Fishing Decline May Be Reversed By Planting

areas in Marin used to lay in Paper Mill Creek, which flows into the south end of Tomales Bay. Peters Dam, completed in 1954, created Kent Lake southeast of the town of Lagunitas, and Nicasio Dam, finished in 1961, formed Nicasio Reservoir just west of the town of Nicasio.

Running the figures through his head with the grimness of a coroner, Giddings computed that runs had dropped from about 2,000 salmon and steelhead annually 15 years ago to about 400 in the current season, which ended Feb. 28. Ocean fishing season began March 1.

The dams were the big reason, Giddings said, but there were other factors. Pollution from a variety of sources killed fish. Summer fishing for trout (there are none in Paper Mill creek) resulted in the inadvertent taking of salmon fingerlings only a few months old. Pumping of water by persons living adjacent to a stream ("repariam rights") changed the stream environment.

"There used to be all sorts of illegal fishing when we had the big runs," said Giddings, whose job is to catch illegal anglers. "We used to have spearing cases, gaffing cases, you name it. People would take 'em by club, by hand, any way they could get 'em."

No more. From 15-20 fishermen on weekdays and 200 on weekends, the number has dropped to 5-10 a day and 50 on weekends, Giddings estimated.

The Department of Fish and Game is trying to turn things around by raising salmon in hatcheries and depositing them in streams. Over two tons of fingerlings — some 40,000 fish in all — were planted March 13 in Paper Mill Creek.

"They've been trying off and on for 10 years, and steadily the last three," said Giddings. "We thought we had a good one this year, but no runs have developed of any consequence."

Like many other attempts to outguess nature, salmon planting is subject to hidden factors and unforeseen developments. An early attempt to use Oregon fish, for example, failed because the fish, operating on an inner timetable geared to Oregon, returned to the streams before fishing season opened in Marin Nov. 1.

Even under the best of circumstances, no more than five per cent of the fish return to the stream. If this year's plant of 40,000 turns out well, the 1976 run will contain about 2,000 fish.

"So far, we still haven't come up with the right numbers of the right strain to fill the void," said Giddings. "We thought we had a good one for this year, but no runs developed."

Everything considered, it is not a pretty picture for the fishermen. Disappointment and pessimism have supplanted eagerness and optimism.

"You kind of don't go unless you hear there's something going on," Giddings said. "You just don't figure it's there anymore."

Outfielder Agee On Waivers

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers placed veteran outfielder Tommie Agee, 31, on waivers today for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

Agee, who was acquired from St. Louis last December in exchange for relief pitcher Pete Richert, batted .177 with St. Louis and .235 with Houston last season.

In another move, the Dodgers put Ken McMullen on the restricted list.

Braves Buy Capra

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves today purchased New York Met reliever Buzz Captra for a "considerable sum," although the selling price was not disclosed.

Economy without cramps.

Buying a compact car with a six-cylinder engine can make room in your budget. If that compact car is an economical 1974 Chevy Nova 6, you'll also end up with a lot of room in your car. "Automotive Industries' Roominess Index" says no domestic compact at any price has more head and shoulder room, front and rear, than Nova. The roomy, economical Nova 6 comes in three versatile models, 2-door, 4-door and Hatchback. All in all, Nova 6 makes a lot of sense right now.

The 4-Door. The Nova's rear seat is so roomy, some people like to get to it fast. The four-door version of the Nova 6 makes this easy. From this point on, the rear seat passengers are carried economically to their destination by Nova's proven six-cylinder engine. Just like passengers in other Nova models. And like other Novas, the four-door traditionally maintains high resale value.

IN TENNIS RACE

Favored Redwood Has Challenges

By LEW CODDINGTON

This is a bad year for sports dynasties, as any 1974 UCLA basketball player can tell you, and Redwood High School's tennis reign faces not one but three challengers this season.

Drake, Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools hope to give the Giants a battle during the 14-match season, which was to open today with a schedule calling for Tamalpais at Redwood, 3:30 p.m., Drake vs. Marin Catholic at College of Marin, 4 p.m., San Marin at San Rafael, 4 p.m., and Terra Linda at Novato, 4 p.m.

Redwood, which soaks up the leading age-group players from the tennis-rich Belvedere-Tiburon area, has won six consecutive Marin County Athletic League titles.

The Giants have won 79 consecutive league matches since losing their opener to Novato on April 16, 1968, 3-2. They have gone 60 straight matches without a loss since Woodside gave them a 7-0 beating on March 26, 1971.

Both streaks are imperiled. San Rafael and Terra Linda, which tied for second last year at 11-3 behind Redwood's 14-0, return the core of their teams and Drake, 6-8 last year, also is strong.

Redwood is bolstered by the return of Henry Jacobson, ranked eighth in boys 16 singles and 20th in boys 18 singles by the Northern California Lawn Tennis Association. He transferred last year to Marin Academy.

Coach Glen Dickey's Giants also have Mark Strasser and Grant Grinnell, who teamed up last year to win the North Coast doubles title. Freshmen Herman Bauer and Paul Luchetta are rising fast.

Terra Linda, undefeated against tough pre-season competition, has two of the league's best in No. 1 Doug Carlisle (the basketball star) and No. 2 James Lee (the only player to win a match from Redwood last season).

Coach Chris Ahearn is primarily pleased about his strength all down the line, however, He points out that his team lost the first three singles but still defeated tough Washington of San Francisco, 4-3.

San Rafael is stocked with talented underclassmen, led by sophomore Mark Sabella, soph Bill Sockolov and frosh Bob Green, any one of whom could be No. 1, according to coach Milt Hain.

The Bulldogs went 4-1, losing to Montgomery of Santa Rosa, a team Redwood beat.

Drake is led by Gene Lachelt, and has a new coach, Will Curley, who replaces Bob Fitzhenry He is one of four new mentors in the league, the others being Albert Brambila of Tamalpais, Carolyn Barnato of Novato and Terry McBroom of San Marin, who replace Hart Smith, Jim Caranica and Rick Whitney, respectively.

Mrs. Barnato and Marin Catholic's Mary Ann O'Neill are the only women to coach boys varsity sports in the MCAL.

Mrs. O'Neill is optimistic about Marin Catholic's chances, saying "some of the matches we lost 4-3 last year we should be winning 4-3 this year" — a statement which, if true, would endanger Terra Linda and San Rafael. Frosh Frank Casella plays No. 1 for the Wildcats.

Judge Won't Block Closed Circuit Showing Of Fight

Combined AP & UPI

LAS VEGAS — A federal judge refused to grant a preliminary injunction against heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman yesterday that could have blocked American closed circuit television showing of Foreman's title defense tonight against Ken Norton in Caracas, Venezuela.

Judge Roger D. Foley ruled he lacked personal jurisdiction in the action brought by KO Inc., a Nevada corporation headed by Loren Cassina, against Foreman, his manager-trainer Charles (Dick) Sadler and the Foreman Development Co.

The injunction was requested by attorney Robert Reid because of an alleged five-year contract signed by Sadler in 1971 that gave KO Inc. and Cassina exclusive rights to ancillary commitments for Foreman's fights. Foreman won the title from Joe Frazier in 1973.

"I have no recollection of signing any such contract and deny doing so," Sadler said in a statement read to the court by attorney Robert Vizas.

It's free, but. . .

Marin County power boaters who have never participated in a predicted log race can do so Saturday. The race is free, but bring your own power boat.

The Loch Lomond Yacht Club of San Rafael is sponsoring the novice race along with the Predicted Log Racing Association of Northern California.

While this race is for beginners only, there will be experienced racers present to help novices negotiate the eight-mile course at Loch Lomond.

To further help prospective racers, a predicted log racing expert will offer an instruction session at the San Rafael Yacht Club. James Howard will teach today at 7:30 p.m.

Last-minute instruction details will be provided at Loch Lomond Saturday at 8:30 a.m. prior to the race.

Warriors End Home Season

OAKLAND (AP) — It's Fan Appreciation night at the Oakland Arena tonight at 8 o'clock when Golden State closes its home season against the Portland Trail Blazers.

But $11,000 in gifts to the customers in the Oakland Coliseum Arena probably won't soften the disappointment at the Warriors missing the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Something less than the 6,367 average home-game attendance is expected on hand when Golden State tries to end a five-game losing string. Portland holds a 3-2 edge in its series with Golden State and the two clubs meet again tomorrow at Portland in the season windup.

Stewart, Chavez On Northern Cal Squad

Two Marin players — center Byron Stewart of San Rafael High School and guard Eddie Joe Chavez of Drake — have been named to the all-Northern California basketball team chosen by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation.

They join 39 other players chosen by the All Northern California Board of Basketball, a panel by sports writers and sports editors from Northern California newspapers.

Stewart, a 6-foot-7, 205-pound senior, averaged 22.0 points a game in leading San Rafael to the Marin County Athletic League championship and a spot in the Tournament of Champions.

Chavez, a 6-1, 165-pound senior, averaged 18.4 as he paced Drake to the best overall record in Marin (21-7).

The board voted to dedicate this year's team to Greg Brown, star guard from Berkeley High who died of a heart attack on court during a late-season game.

Chosen co-players of the year were Bill Cartwright, seven-foot center from San Joaquin Tournament of Champions winner Elk Grove, and Gene Ransom, 5-9 junior guard from Berkeley.

The team:

Giants Send Down Three

PHOENIX (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants reduced their roster to 30, five above the legal player limit, yesterday by sending back to the minor league pitchers Butch Metzger and John Sielicki and first baseman Skip James.

They were sent to Casa Grande, Ariz., the minor league complex of the Giants for further assignment. Metzger was 10-3 wih Amarillo last year and Sielicki was 10-10 with the same club. James hit .261 for Phoenix last season.

The Giants had the day off in exhibition competition, but open a two-game series with the Milwaukee Brewers today. Righthander Jim Willoughby will pitch for San Francisco.

KITE MAKING MAY SEEM SIMPLE BUT . . .

First you take some thin wooden strips and cut them to the right length, as James Cooper, 9, of Cub Pack 27, Den 5 (left) demonstrates and then it is notched on the end, as Leonard Stimpson, 9, shows. No kite would be complete without a design selected and painted by the owner, John Chappella, 8. Then the kite sticks are tied together to form a cross being tied by David King, 8. All of this activity was a demonstration on kite making in preparation for a kite day by the cub pack. (Photos by Bob Hax)

KITE MAKING — Nothing is easier than tieing two sticks together, or is it? Sigrid Clomera, den leader, demonstrates how easy it is to show a room of cub scouts the simple trick in a recent kite making day for the pack at Hamilton Air Force Base.

STRINGING ALONG — Once the cross members are firmly tied together the outside string must be run around the ends of the sticks to form the shape of the kite, as shown by Elliott Dykeman, 9.

NOW THE PAPER — David King, 8, positions the crossstick on the paper in preparation for cutting it to size. Lightweight, but strong, paper makes for better flying.

SUCCESS AT LAST — Away it goes! Off into the wild blue yonder. Brian Miller and Arthur Clomera, both 9, get their kite airborne without thinking that the tree in the background may be a kite-eating tree such as plagues Peanut's Charley Brown each spring. (Photos by Bob Hax)

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Boost In Asset Income Sought

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. How can I improve the earnings from my assets? I hold 115 Northern Natural Gas (NYSE), 240 BankAmerica (OTC), 500 Canadian Pacific (NYSE), 285 General American Investors (NYSE), 11M Union Oil California 8½s of 1976 and $5,500 in banks earning 5%. I have a $5,000 annual pension which will stop in 1978. Social Security amounted to $2,230 in 1973. General American lowered its dividend after the split and the shares dropped in price. — O.A.

A. First of all, the split in General American should be explained. Shareholders now own three shares for each two owned previously. This increase in capitalization would automatically reduce the price of the shares by 33 per cent. Thus, for each 100 shares held prior to the split, you would own 150 following the distribution. However, the value of your aggregate holdings in GAM would remain the same on the day the split became effective. On an adjusted basis the income dividend was raised from 20 cents per share to 24 cents. Capital gains distributions, which vary from year to year, were reduced from $1.27 a share to $1.05. Because this is a closed-end fund, the shares trade at either a premium or discount from the per share asset value of the underlying portfolio. At present, the shares are at a 13 per cent discount from net asset value.

Your assets have a current value of $45,900, from which you received $2,525, a 5.5 per cent return last year. The maximum return which you might conceivably expect, while protecting the safety of your capital, would be about 8.5 per cent or $3,900. In actuality, your savings at 5 per cent should probably be left intact and your bond, returning 8.2 per cent, should be held, reducing your discretionary capital base to $29,250, from which you are earning 4.6 per cent. Thus, if these funds were reinvested in bonds yielding 8.5 per cent currently, your total income from assets would be increased to $3,665 or 8.0 per cent.

Control End Gives Spur To Market

Word that the Senate Banking Committee had decided to let wage and price controls die on April 30 helped the stock market shake off worries about rising interest rates on the New York Exchange and score a small gain today.

The market, sluggish yesterday as buyers kept to the sidelines perked up this morning after the Senate Banking Committee voted 15 to 0 to kill President Nixon's proposal to retain wage and price controls.

Ehrlichman Trial Starts April 15

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The trial of John Ehrlichman on perjury charges is scheduled to begin April 15, which would make Ehrlichman the first former high White House official to face a jury for the Ellsberg burglary.

Ehrlichman is the only one of the four original defendants who still faces trial in a California court.

He is charged with lying to a county grand jury when he testified that he did not know in advance the White House "plumbers" planned to rifle the files of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist here.

The trial date was set yesterday in a conference involving prosecutor Stephen Trott, defense attorney Douglas Dalton and Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer.

The lawyers said there was still a possibility that Dalton would request a change of venue.

Ehrlichman, 48, formerly President Nixon's top domestic affairs adviser, was originally charged with burglary and conspiracy on the grounds that he gave the orders that led eventually to the break-in.

Charged with him were G. Gordon Liddy, the former White House and Nixon reelection committee lawyer who was convicted in the Watergate burglary, David Young, former National Security Agency officer, and Egil (Bud) Krogh, alleged head of the White House operation that included the plumbers.

Charges against Krogh were dropped when he pleaded guilty to a federal charge of violating the civil rights of the psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding.

Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and District Attorney Joseph Busch agreed to drop the state charges of burglary and conspiracy against the other three so that Ehrlichman and Liddy could be tried with the alleged "plumbers" on the same federal charge in Washington. No federal charges were brought against Young, who is expected to be an important witness for the prosecution in the federal court action.

In Washington yesterday U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell met with attorneys involved in the trial there.

Shelling In Golan Area Continuing

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

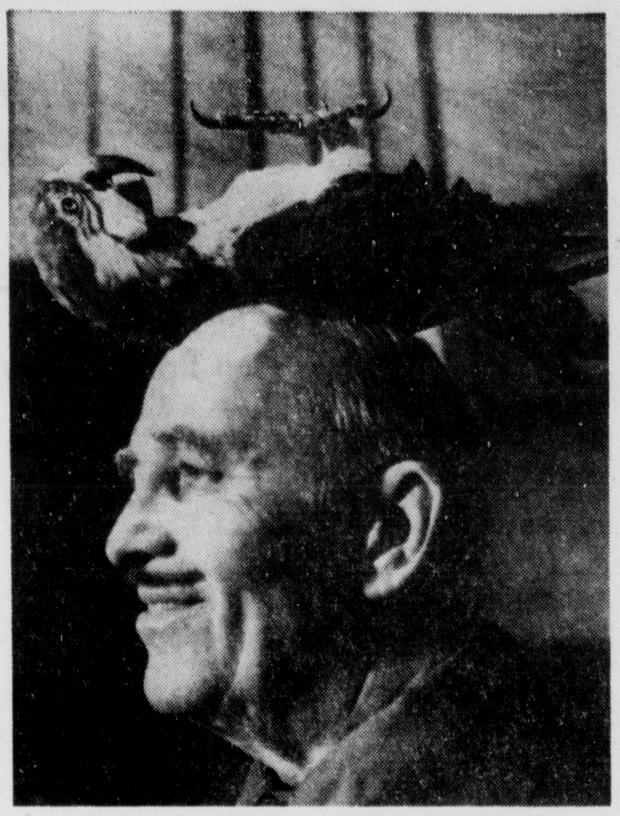
The big guns resumed their daily shelling for the 15th day today on the Golan Heights. Syria's defense minister said it would go on until Israel withdraws.

An Israeli spokesman said Syrian gunners opened fire with artillery and tank cannons and that the shells slammed into the southern sector of the salient Israeli carved out of Syria in the October war.

Meanwhile, the Israeli newspaper Ma'ariv said U.S. intelligence reports showed Egypt has moved 80 cannons, including 10 pieces of 130mm, into restricted forward areas in violation of its disengagement pact with Israel.

It said the 130mm cannons are in Port Said and Port Fuad at the northern terminus of the Suez Canal.

The newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said the United States has asked Israel not to exaggerate the seriousness of the violation so that it could be settled through diplomatic channels without publicity.



BIBLE BIRDS

A live, feathery Easter bonnet is William Hansen's description of the macaw lying on top of his head to some 1,200 attending an Ypsilanti, Mich., Sunday School show of his "Bible Birds." The birds bark, somersault and swallow swords in response to Hansen's religious narrative. Hansen, manager of a religious radio station near Indianapolis, has been training rare birds for more than 30 years.

City Worker Pay Boost Is Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — City employes finally got their $600 a year pay hike yesterday, but it did not come easy.

The pay package, subject of a nine-day strike earlier in the month, passed 7-3. Two supervisors tried to enter last-minute amendments but later withdrew.

Supervisor Quentin Kopp urged that higher raises be granted to city engineers, architects, planners and draftsmen. At that point, Board President Dianne Feinstein yielded the gavel and said, "If the pay package is opened up, there is no way to be fair unless you give everyone earning more than $1,000-a-month larger raises."

Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn then offered an amendment to that effect.

After a lengthy debate, Kopp withdrew his motion, and Mendelsohn followed suit.

To top it off, City Attorney Thomas O'Connor warned the board that a provision promising a $500,000 dental program is illegal. the board passed the ordinance anyhow, legal or not.

Tribunal Overturns Conviction Of Wearing Flag On Seat Pants

WASHINGTON (API) — The Supreme Court overturned yesterday the conviction of a Massachusetts man arrested for wearing an American flag on the seat of his pants.

The court ruled 5 to 4 that the state law against mistreatment of the American flag was unconstitutional because it was too vague and too broad.

In his majority opinion, Justice Lewis F. Powell wrote that the law "fails to draw reasonably clear lines between the kinds of nonceremonial treatment that are criminal and those that are not."

He also said that "flag contempt statutes have been characterized as void of lack of notice on the theory that what is contemptuous to one man may be a work of art to another."

The case involved Valarie Goguen, who was convicted in Worcester, County, Mass., for wearing a United States flag sewed to the seat of his pants.

Justice Byron R. White, in a concurring opinion, said he thought the law was not too vague, but believed it did violate the First and 14th Amendments guaranteeing free speech and due process.

In one of the two dissenting opinions, Justice William H. Rehnquist said he thought the law did not violate the First Amendment since the defendant did not seem to be "trying to communicate any particular idea... which is entitled to First Amendment protection."

"The significance of the flag, and the deep emotional feelings it arouses in a large part of our citizens, cannot be fully expressed in the two dimensions of a lawyer's brief or of a judicial opinion," said Rehnquist. In other decisions, the court:

Refused to review an appeal of a decision which struck down New Jersey's 1847 abortion law as an invasion of a woman's privacy and unconstitutionally vague. Since the court ruled last year that women and their doctors have a right to decide on an abortion in the first trimester of pregnancy, it has declined to hear any abortion cases.

Selected Made-to-Measure Custom-Look Draperies

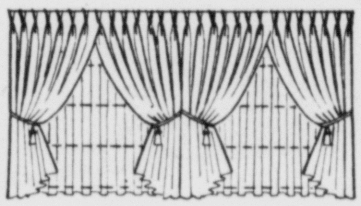
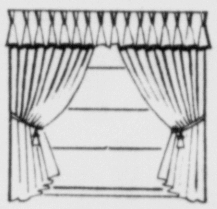
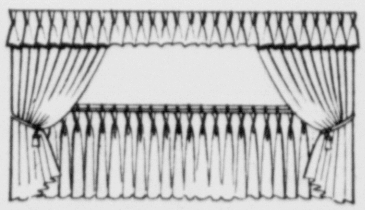
For a formal look, draperies with matching tiebacks hang gracefully over sheers.



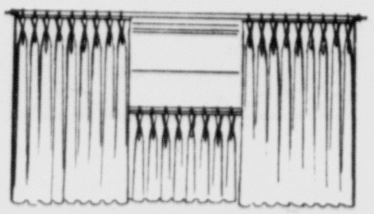
Break up a wide window with an abundance of tied-back draperies over sheers.



A little window gains stature with formal draperies, valance, and tiebacks.



For privacy, have draperies with a valance over a short tier treatment . . . all in the same fabric.



Use the short tier treatment for a tailored look. Draw the full-length draperies partially.

Now, have the selection of fabrics and sizes you'd expect in more expensive draperies. At a low price you'd never expect! Sears made-to-measure draperies come in hundreds of colors, exciting textures, formal fabrics, sheers, prints or versatile solids. And you can choose from options of custom fullness, valancing and tiebacks . . . also on sale. Whatever your style, you'll like Sears style. Just bring in your window measurements and Sears will do the rest. But hurry, to take advantage of savings!

HOW TO MEASURE
